Foreword

SPORTSMANSHIP!

THAT is the art theme of THE 1930 HOWLER: Sportsmanship! This theme is portrayed in its development, from the primitive man's instinctive idea of self-protection, down to the complicated meaning of the term in our twentieth century. Today, man must show good Sportsmanship in all his relations with his fellow-man, the object of the game being not merely to win but to play fairly. The college student must show good Sportsmanship everywhere: in scholarship, in forensics, in athletics.

To the history of yesterday and today, we have added a prophecy of tomorrow. If happy memories have been reviewed, if nobler aspirations have been awakened, our efforts have not been in vain. With this purpose in view, we submit

Words of Dr. Lynch

BROTHERS, in the great outlying country I find few persons who know exactly where Wake Forest is, but I meet with many who know where her sons are. The college is known by her fruits. She has "spheres of influence" in every field of endeavor, and her far-flung battle lines are holding their own. I voice their greetings and grateful affection for Alma Mater. Her lap is not filled with gold. Some of her garments are threadbare with time and toil and are not in the fashion of the day. Her hands are still hard from the poverty of lean years, but they are open and outstretched in democratic hospitality to rich and poor alike. She is not unduly proud of her wealthy sons, nor is she ashamed of her poor kin. She still lives in the old homestead remote from the centres of congested populations and accumulated wealth. Her house stands by the road, and she is the friend of man. Her children are her jewels. In a thousand places in the homeland and beyond the seas they rise up and call her blessed. They do not fear for her and she need not fear for them. The rich college will get richer, and the State institutions will grow stronger; but Wake Forest is built deep as the heart can love and high as the soul can pray. Voicing the passionate feelings of her loyal sons and devoted friends, I fling to the world the challenge: We shall live; we shall rise; we shall command.

Senior Class Poem

Our days at Wake Forest are numbered and gone.
 But still in our minds happy thoughts linger on.
 Of the days fraught with friendships and memories dear;
 Not unmingled with sorrow and many a tear.
 But despite the few sorrows and even the tears.
 We'll always rejoice as we think o'er these years.

When O. C., and A. C., and Finxtus, and Slick,
 (Not to mention Lucille with her old rhetoric),
 And Billy, and Percy, and Skinny, and Bull,
 Attempted with knowledge our minds to fill full:
 We rebelled at the moment, but now we can see
 That their efforts will cause us to prize our degree.

But now as we leave these sacred old halls,
 The magnolias and spruces and ivy-clad walls.
 And the paths o'er the campus that wind 'neath the trees,
 There's a pang in our hearts that nothing can ease.
 Nor let us forget, should we ever win fame,
 That to honor Wake Forest will be our one aim.

HENRY PITTMAN ALLEN,  $\Phi$  K  $\Psi$
Applicant for B.A. Degree
 LUMBERTON, N. C.

Glee Club (1); Freshman Baseball (1); President Sophomore Class (2); Student Legislature (2); Student Council (3); President Pan-Hellenic Council (4); Golden Bough (4); Varsity Baseball (2, 3, 4); Varsity Basketball (2, 3, 4).

"PITT"

From his first day on the campus "Pitt" has been one of the outstanding men of his class. He served us as the highest officer of our class our Sophomore year. He has also demonstrated ability along many other lines, by playing baseball and basketball, serving as a member of the Student Council and Student Legislature and lastly by being tapped into the Golden Bough. We know "Pitt" will succeed in whatever field he may enter for life.

WALLACE OLINTHUS ANDREWS
Applicant for B.A. Degree
 WAKE FOREST, N. C.

An Active Pastor (1, 2, 3, 4); Campbell College Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Member "F"; B. Y. P. U. (1); Chorister Dr. Nowell's S. S. Class (1); Chorister Ministerial Class (1); Asst. in Bible (2, 3, 4); Phi Society (1); College Quartet (2).

"W. O."

"ST. ANDREWS"

Virginia is "W. O.'s" native home. He possesses qualities that will make him great even as some of the pioneers of his State were great. "St. Andrews" has won a warm spot in the hearts of his classmates by his duly consecrated, careful, conscientious, appreciative life. As the time demands, he is a big-hearted shepherd, and his life for the Master will be a useful one. His loyalty is unwavering, unmoved and steadfast—truly, "A friend in need is a friend indeed" applies to him.

EMMETT SAMS ASHCRAFT, X H T
 Applicant for B. S. Degree
 MARSHVILLE, N. C.

Glee Club (2, 3); Orchestra (2, 3); Band (4).

"EMMETT"

Some men are easy to describe in a short biography, but there are others who because of their outstanding personality and lofty character are difficult to describe. Such a man is Emmett. A more carefree, good-hearted, merry-souled fellow never was made. Charming modesty, straightforward frankness, and generosity are the qualities that are combined and personified in his wonderful personality. The words of the poet fittingly describe him:

*"His life was gentle, and the elements
 So mixed in him, that Nature might stand up
 And say to all the world, 'This was a man'."*

L. PATRICK BECK
 Applicant for B.A. Degree
 BADIN, N. C.

Wingate Junior College (1, 2); Wingate Club (3, 4); Vice-President Dr. Quisenberry's S. S. Class (4); President "E" B. Y. P. U. (4); Ministerial Class (3, 4); President Student Body, Wingate Junior College (2).

"PAT"

"Pat" is a Christian gentleman, an active leader in religious work, and a promising young minister of the gospel. He is a kind and genial friend a worthy student, and one who commands the love and respect of his fellow students. That "Pat" may add another to the many distinguished men who have gone out from our Alma Mater to serve humanity in that highest of callings—the ministry—is our hope.

"Pat's" weaknesses are "red-headed" girls and a lack of Samson's source of strength.

THE 1930 HOWLER

CHARLES ATLAS BLAND, ΓΣΕ, ΧΙΠ

Applicant for B.S. Degree

ELLENBORO, N. C.

Special Gym Class (1, 2, 3); Secretary Rutherford County Club (2); Track (1); "Gold Dust Twins" (1, 2, 3); Art Editor HOWLER (3).

"TROY"

Fond parents named him Charles, but he got mixed up with a boy friend and to us he is known as "Troy."

He loved and is loved by his fellowmen. What higher honor can be bestowed upon any man? He is going and he leaves with us this thought. "'Tis well that we knew him." He will never be forgotten, for who could let escape from his memory fond recollections of happy days spent with "Our Friend"? He is one of the few men whom we have found to be versatile as a leader, constant as a friend, attaining high honors, and still be big enough to remain himself.

To a man of sterling character—may we wish for him all that is good.

WADE H. BOSTICK, ΠΚΔ

Applicant for B.S. Commerce Degree

RALEIGH, N. C.

Mars Hill Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Wrestling Squad (1); Intra-mural Basketball (2); Old Gold and Black Staff (2); Phi Society (2, 3, 4); Critic (2); Varsity Debater (2, 3, 4); Southern Championship Debate Team (3); Western Trip Team (4); Secretary Debate Council (4); Manager Debating (4); Society Day Debater (3, 4); Society Day Orator (4); Anniversary Day Debater (4).

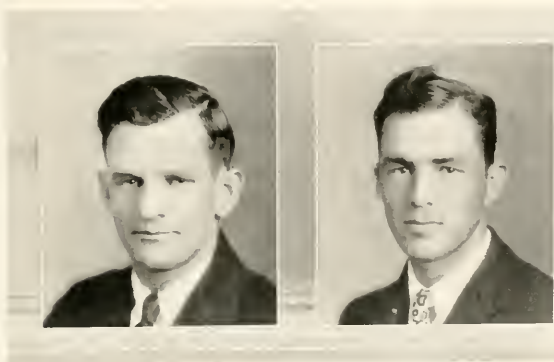

"WADE"

Wade's record as a student and a debater has been superb. If he is as successful with the jury as he has been with the judges in the forensic battles in which he has participated, we are sure that he shall climb high on the ladder of success, and that his Alma Mater will some day honor him as one of her distinguished sons.

EARLE L. BRADLEY II K Δ
Applicant for B.A. Degree
ASHEVILLE, N. C.

HENRY ALLEN BRANDON X T
Applicant for B.S. Degree
YADKINVILLE N. C.

Eu Society (3, 4), Vice-President (3), President (4); Forensic Club (4); Mars Hill Club (3, 4); Anniversary Debater (4); Vice-President Ministerial Class (4).

Freshman Basketball (1), Baseball (1, 2).

"E. L."

The Land of the Sky sent Earle to us. Earle has made an unusual record in scholastic endeavor and also in the college activities. He is endowed with a keen intellect, a commanding personality and a resolute soul. No man places a limit to his strength, he removes obstacles from his path. He is not only preparing himself to live, but he is not forgetting to live now. No discrepancies in his character. He is prompt, true to his promises, honest and thoughtful of others. He is truly a Christian gentleman.

"DIZZY"

One could look this whole world over and never find another "Dizzy." His originality and friendly word of greeting and his willingness to work or play, his straightforward manner and his determination to finish whatever he has set out to do have won for him certainly more than his share of friends, but "Dizzy" has his weakness, that of worshipping feminine beauty. He always has a hard time getting home during a short vacation since, sailor-like, he has a girl in every town, and everyone must be paid at least a short visit.

THE 1930 HOWLER

RICHARD CURTIS BRISSON

Applicant for B.A. Degree

ST. PAULS, N. C.

Phi Society; Freshman Intercollegiate Debater (1); Freshman Orator; B. Y. P. U.

"CURTIS"

Curtis got off to a good start his Freshman year. He won the Improvement medal in society, mastered his subjects, and made friends. Persuasion, gentleness, frankness, and conviction are in the ring of his voice. He is a man of clean lips, pure gold in character and can enjoy humor. His mind is open to truth, his tongue is slow in condemning and his task receives his best. One loves Curtis for what he is—not what he will be. His ideals are as high as the stars, his services within the reach of all men. Those who know him love him best. Philos!

KENNETH E. BROWN,  $\Pi \Gamma \Sigma, \Gamma \Sigma E$

Applicant for B.S. Degree

PINNACLE, N. C.

Intra-mural Basketball (2, 4); Intra-mural Football (4).

"KAY"

It was not long after K. E. Brown came to Wake Forest before he became known as a quiet, studious young man. He has that unusual combination of ability and eagerness to learn and also the ability to "keep his head" when he gains sound knowledge, thus differing from the Sophists of old and the majority of modern peoples. When confronted with a task, he sets to work consistently until it is finished. He is the kind to turn obstacles into stepping stones to success. We predict a successful life for this industrious young gentleman

THE 1930 HOWLER

JAMES OTIS CARTER
Applicant for B. A. Degree
 REIDSVILLE, N. C.

Dr. Guley's S. S. Class (1); Ministerial Class Historian (4); Reporter (4); B. Y. P. U. (1, 2, 3, 4); Quiz Leader (3); Group Captain (2, 4); President Dr. Carpenter's S. S. Class (3); Member Dr. Nowell's S. S. Class (2); Treasurer (3); Member Dr. Potat's S. S. Class (4); Rockingham County Club (4).

"OTIS"

"Otis" is an excellent student, and one who always does his best. His friendly and winning personality has won many friends for him. His warm sympathy and desire to help endears him to all who really know him. He is dominated by a sense of his mission. His deep religious nature, his love for his fellow man, his warm sympathy and winning personality, coupled with his ability to express himself, point to a life of great service in the gospel ministry.

AVERY MILTON CHURCH, II K Δ
Applicant for B. A. Degree
 WILKESBORO, N. C.

A. S. T. C., 1926; Chorister Ministerial Class (3); Intercollegiate Debater (4); Chorister Dr. Reid's S. S. Class (2); Chorister "G" B. Y. P. U. (3); Secretary (3); Chaplain Eu Society (4); President Night Section (4); Wilkes County Club.

"A. M."

Church, a native of the "Western Hills," came to Wake Forest as a Sophomore, having completed his Freshman work at the A. S. T. C. at Boone. "A. M." is a consistent worker, a profound thinker, and everybody's friend. His friendly disposition, his fine Christian character, and his magnetic personality have end-ared him to his host of friends both at Wake Forest College and in the ministry, the cause he loves so well. He always finds time to serve in the forensic and religious activities on the campus.

THE 1930 HOWLER

EDWARD G. COLE
Applicant for B.A. Degree
HARRIS, N. C.

Wingate Junior College (1, 2); Officer B. Y. P. U. (4); Vice-President Wingate Club (4).

"ED."

Lucky is he who has "Ed" for a friend. Many a time has he denied himself for the sake of others. Quiet, unassuming, and slow to wrath; he is the embodiment of all that goes to make up a Christian gentleman. His love for the good, the beautiful, and the true marks him as an ideal man. He is possessed with an extraordinary intellect. He has been outstanding in all his scholastic work, being able always to make the roll of honor. His love, respect, and admiration for women is clearly shown in his long, sincere devotion to "Her."

ROBERT LACY COUNCILMAN
Applicant for B.A. Degree
BURLINGTON, N. C.

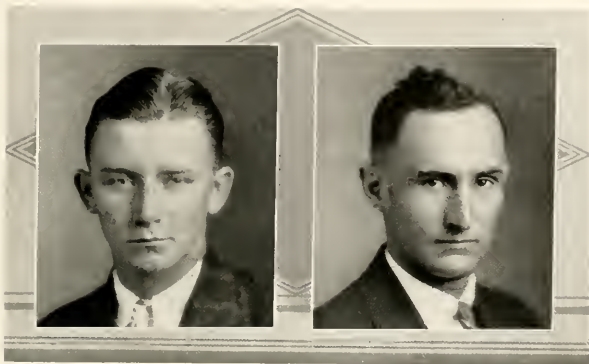

Chaplain Phi Society; Secretary Ministerial Class; President Central Region B. Y. P. U.

"BOB"

"Bob," as he is known on the campus, hails from Burlington. For four years he has proven himself a worthy student of Wake Forest. "Bob" possesses all the good qualities that a young minister should have. He is always ready to lend a helping hand to those in need. At Wake Forest he has won the friendship of both students and faculty. Of course all the girls like "Bob," but we have no fear but that he will make a wise choice when he selects his future companion. In the field of religion we are expecting "Bob" to fill an important place as a preacher of the gospel.

THE 1930 HOWLER

ROBERT W CRUTCHFIELD. K Φ K

Applicant for B.A. Degree
ALBEMARLE, N. C.

"BOB"

"Bob," as he is known, came to us from Mars Hill. In his associations during the past two years, "Bob" has acquired many friends. He is a man whose nature is ever jovial, the attitude of a joy in living. Yet, in all this, there is a deep, philosophical, and inner man, seldom seen by the passer-by. He is a man capable of great accomplishments and attainments. He has grown with us and on us, becoming almost a part of us. A real companion, one whose companionship is always bubbling and buoyant. He is held in high esteem and we predict for him much success.

"You're young only once; but if you work it right, that is enough."

GEORGE DEWEY DANNER

Applicant for B.A. Degree
CATAWBA, N. C.

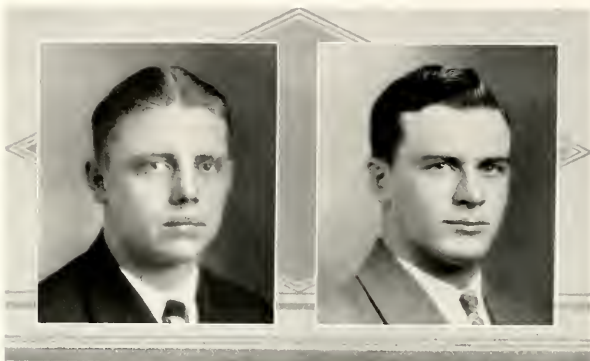

Ministerial Class; Student Council (4); Secretary Campbell Club (4); President "C" B. Y. P. U. (3).

"G. D."

"G. D." hails from the hills by way of Campbell. Drinking from the "Greek," he thus became a "Campbellite." Danner is not only a good student, but a master carpenter as well. Like Whitman and the Nazarene he laid down his tools to take up a larger life. The annex to Salem Baptist Church (Winston-Salem, N. C.), the annex to the boys' dormitory (Campbell College), and several church edifices are monuments to his vacations. High ideals, serious thought, unstained character, clean lips, pleasant smile, and willing hands commend him to the confidence of the strong and fit him for the service of the weak. Gentleman' Brother! Bonus Amicus'

Applicant for B.S. Degree
BURGAW, N. C.

Student Legislature (2); Glee Club (2, 3); President Dr. Petrat's S. S. Class (3, 4); Gen. B. Y. P. U. Chor. (3); B. S. U. (3); Asst. Math. (3, 4); Asst. Bible (3); Junior Editor HOWLER (3); Asst. Psychology and Philosophy (4); Historian Senior Class (4); Golden Bough (3, 4); Rex Sacrorum (4); Editor-in-Chief HOWLER (4).

"R. B."

Roy is a man within whose being burns an unquenchable fire of enthusiasm and optimism. With his strong philosophical, scientific, literary, musical and sociological inclinations and considering that last year he was assistant in three departments, was a member of the Glee Club, was Junior Editor of the HOWLER, was active in many other organizations, and incidentally made the highest average grade in the student body, induces one to call him a super-man. This book itself is his write-up and its theme of sportsmanship his credo.

GRAHAM WILLIAMS DENTON

Applicant for B.A. Degree
RALEIGH, N. C.

President Senior Class (4); President Student Legislature (3); President Phi Society (4); Vice-President Dr. Reid's S. S. Class (4); Freshman Football (1); Varsity Football (2, 3, 4); Secretary Phi Society (4); Monogram Club (2, 3, 4); Golden Bough (4).

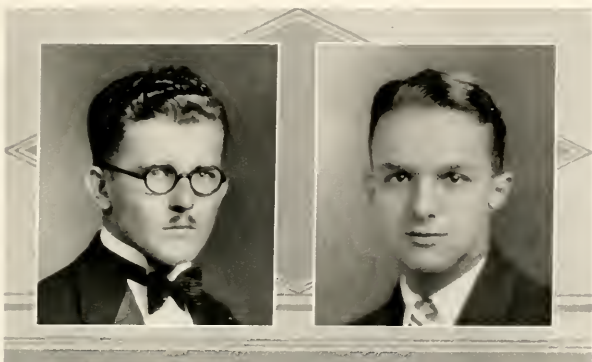

"OLE BOY DENT"

Poets may be born, but true success is achieved, and if it is achieved by honest and consistent work. Denton can never fail. He is a genuine student and has made for himself an enviable record at Wake Forest College. He possesses a keen intellect and a physical make-up as strong and perfect as a Grecian statue of an Olympian hero, which combined with a friendly personality and character make him a four-square man. Realizing these never-dying characteristics, we recommend Denton as one of the most promising young men that the Class of '30 has to offer.

RAYMOND L. EVANS. Γ Σ Ε
Applicant for B.A. Degree
EDENTON, N. C.

HERMAN FARBER. Φ Κ Β, Γ Σ Ε
Applicant for B.S. Degree
WELDON, N. C.

Band (2); Student Council (3); Assistant in Biology (4).

Freshman Football (1); Track (2, 3, 4); Student Council (3); Assistant in Biology (3, 4).

"SONNY BOY"

It is but natural that we should expect one that comes from such an historic town to write his name upon pages of Wake Forest history. Raymond's accomplishments are worthy of the highest praise. He has stood out in front both as a student and as a fellow. As a student he is unexcelled; as a gentleman, none is more perfect; as a friend, he is the truest. The fact that he holds an assistantship in Biology should be evidence enough of his jurisprudence in that field. We predict that he will write upon the pages of human history as indelibly as upon the pages of Wake Forest history.

"HERMAN"

"A friend in need is a friend indeed."

Herman is a real friend, a true pal and a good sport. His good nature and friendly attitude make him popular with all the students. He is always willing to help anyone and to know Herman is to like him. Not only does he excel in his friendliness, but as a student and in college activities as well. Nothing other than complimentary could be said about Herman. Luck to you, Herman! We feel sure that you are destined to make a huge success.

EDISON PERRY FAULKNER
Applicant for B.S. Degree
 LOUISBURG, N. C.

Member "F" B. Y. P. U. (1, 2, 3); Vice-President (3); Vice-President Dr. Nowell's S. S. Class (4); Secretary-Treasurer (2); Secretary of College S. S. (2); Vice-President Dr. Bryan's S. S. Class (3); Class Basketball (2); Summer School Student Council, 1929

"FORK"

Likeable, capable, and unassuming is Perry. Although not taking any conspicuous part in the activities of the campus, he is the "Dun and Bradstreet" of the social circles—the little "Blue Book" contains much information. As a student he is unsurpassed, only those who have ability and personality can hold a place of equal rank on the campus and in the classroom—this Perry does. He is ever ready to crack a joke, and above all he is a Christian gentleman

"WILLIE"

On this side of the page, ladies and gentlemen, we have one of the most illustrious members of the Class of '30—one who will, no doubt, some day—appear on the pages of history as one of the great scientists of all time. As a student, he is of the best; as a gentleman, we have no nobler; as a friend, he is genuine; as a leader, he is strong and compelling. Need we say more? To the world we present him—one of the best the Class of Nineteen Thirty has to offer.

Although "Bill" is quiet, he is a great thinker. He is capable of solving problems of great importance. He is known on the campus as one who has a big heart in that he is always willing to help and cooperate in anything worthwhile. We are sure that this spirit that has manifested his progress at "Dear Old Wake" will make him a success throughout life. "Bill" is always well dressed, which shows that he is interested in keeping himself outwardly as well as inwardly clean. Here's to you, "Bill." We are sure that you will be a success.

If honesty, persistency, congeniality and pleasantness are characteristics of greatness, then Floyd is truly great. The loyalty and devotion that he has shown toward his school activities, and his willingness to lend a helping hand have won for him countless friends. He shows extraordinary talent in the field of music, but underneath this musical appearance one will find a heart of pure gold. His life on the campus has been lived in harmony with the Christian ideals of the school. His heart has been pierced by Cupid's stinging arrow, and we predict for him a bright and happy future.

For two years he has been a member of the Deacon grid team, and his strong determination and physical strength have made him a valuable man in the line. Charlie is well known on the Wake Forest campus and by no means is he a stranger to the girls of Raleigh and Meredith. He delights in doing difficult things, therefore his future success is assured.

"HELMS"

Thurman may not stand at the head of his class in scholarship, but once he begins a thing, he never gives up until it is finished. His dogged determination is one of his outstanding characteristics. You never hear him brag, but you always see him doing things. He has no enemies for he treats his fellow man with respect. His character stands the severest test, being dominated by the Christian spirit. His weaknesses are women and poetry, and the one who has a love for these cannot miss the mark very, very far. Ask his friends. They know.

"JUDGE"

In "Jim" we have quite a ladies' man. Socially he is somewhat of a lion; as a student he is unsurpassed; and as a musician, he is a second Paderewski. One of "Jim's" outstanding features is his calm, smooth air. He never allows things to worry him. In fact, his nonchalant disposition would make him as much at home in the palace of a king as among a group of his classmates. Seldom does nature form a more widely gifted man. "PERK"

"Perk" hails from the hills of Western North Carolina. If there is anyone who gets the most out of life, that person is he. The worries of college life are not a part of his schedule. Being always optimistic, he never allows his studies to interfere with his social activities. Yet there is about him all the qualities which make a man. His courtesy and genuine friendship have caused all those who really knew him to love him. He is a good student and a gentleman in the truest sense. With his sincere convictions and outspoken honesty, he will be an honor to his chosen profession.

THOMAS ARCHIE PARKER

"RED"

With the blue eyes, red hair, and frank, boyish smile of this not unhandsome young man, nature has combined a certain aversion to ostentation in speech with his reticent demeanor to form an almost inimitably paradoxical personality. Parker has spent his entire four years of college at Wake Forest. He has made friends in every department of the institution and those who know him best are unanimous in their affirmation that he possesses the inevitable characteristics which mark him as a Christian gentleman.

HINTON M. PATTERSON, K Φ K

Applicant for B.A. Degree

"Pat" has been at Wake Forest only two years, having transferred from Campbell College. During his stay here he has won the respect and admiration of the faculty and student body because of his irreproachable character and his fair dealings with his associates. He has made an enviable record and surely success awaits one who can conquer with such ease the obstacles of higher Latin and education as "Pat" has done. "Pat" will be instructing the youth of the land next year and we feel sure that his students will absorb much of the spirit that has won so many friends for him at Wake Forest.

BRUCE A PERRY

Applicant for B.S. Degree

ZEBULON, N. C.

"BRUCE"

Bruce has trodden the walks of Wake Forest campus for four years, coming here as a mere lad from Franklin County. His record as a student is unsurpassed. The girls have not yet been able to gain very much of his attention, but we feel that some fair damsel has her eyes set upon him. Bruce is a hard worker and he never does anything in a haphazard way. He has made a host of friends at Wake Forest and we have no fear of his future success and leadership. In the field of chemistry we predict that he will make himself a useful citizen and a worthy contributor. Our best wishes are his.

Behold, friends, Romans, and countrymen, the ardent admirer of Shakespeare in all the glory of his Roman nose, graces us with an erudite glance and a sagacious smile. Being assistant in English, Phifer naturally assumes the role of the most outstanding student of English Philology on the campus. He even advanced himself to such a position that he was given the felicitous privilege of correcting Freshman themes. But seriously—in Clarence we recognize a man of true literary genius who loves fine literature for the sake of literature alone. Truly he will leave "footprints on the sands of time."

"A man with a conviction and a will," "Icky" hails from the mountains of Cleveland County. After two years of successful college life he turned aside to instruct the youth. The fact that he returned and finished his college course is but one expression of his indomitable courage. He is a good student, and a conscientious, hard working man. He has convictions of his own and is always ready and able to defend them. When thoroughly aroused his argument is characterized by a tenacious boldness and pugnacity.

"R. J."

Unassuming and dignified is 'R. J.' One can know his real worth and personality only by close association, and to know him is to love, admire, and marvel at his open-mindedness and deep thinking. Philosophy is his hobby, and his ability to perceive, formulate, and express sound views makes him outstanding. He is a consecrated Christian gentleman, loyally and devotedly dedicated to the Master's cause. "J. K."

"J. K." through his genial disposition, good nature, and unimpeachable character, is known and loved by the student body. He is a man of honest purposes and grim determination. College life apparently has many joys for him for wherever you see him he is the same cheerful "J. K." By his eloquent voice he can hypnotize friend and foe alike, and it has been rumored that girls fall for it equally as well. "Bumming" to Raleigh is his specialty, but who wouldn't "bum" with such a "cause" as is his?

Speaking of the ladies, that tall, slender physique—we'll it makes us want to be tall and slender, too. In the class room he is diligent, outside he is polite and congenial. On the tennis court he is inconquerable—always up—holding the truest type of sportsmanship. As a tennis player his ability is proven by the fact that he has for two years captained the sport.

As a member of the Glee Club Quartet his services have been almost indispensable. This year he has served as Vice-President of the Pan-Hellenic Council and his policies and influences there have been beneficial in the work of this organization. "Smitty" has been unofficially connected with numerous activities on the campus in his four years here for which he gets no credit. Although he plays no instrument, he has been a most regular attendant of the practices of the musical organizations of the campus and his enthusiasm in their work has had its part in their development. "Smitty" has worked during his stay here on the subject which he plans to make his profession—chemistry. He has devoted his time to work in elementary chemistry and is planning to continue that work upon leaving school in June, at least so he says.

Mingled with this delightful joviality, one who knows him can readily sense a certain sedateness, a noble purpose, a desire to help others. "TOMLIN"

Superlatives are not extravagant usage when estimating one worthy of exalted commendation. The character of Tomberlin is without reproach; his personality both in private and public is unpretentious yet compelling; his scholastic record deserves highest congratulations, while his application and energy are as unparalleled as his interests, aptitudes, and capacities. He can debate, preside, command, lead, and discuss the intricacies of ancient or modern learning; indeed, his resourcefulness would be a valuable contribution to any profession.

"O. T."

This is "O. T." He comes to us from the State of Robeson, from which Wake Forest has drawn many other illustrious sons. He is brilliant, witty, and brim-full of humor. No one could be blue around him I said he was brilliant, although he is not so studious, for he does not have to be. He is by natural endowment one of those sons of erudition to whom knowledge comes easily. In line, he is a popular, well-rounded Wake Forest man, and a man of superb moral character. In the Class of '30 there is no finer.

"F. G."

Friendly, studious, courteous and persistent are the profound characteristics of "F. G." His determination, his sunny disposition and his sterling character have won for him many priceless jewels—friends. He is a student in whom his fellows confide, and the confidence of his friends has built for him a shrine of friendship. His high ideals are his greatest asset, and his determination is equal to the task of living these ideals. Possessing all the qualities of a Christian gentleman and living and loving the truth, we may readily predict success in his great calling—the Christian ministry.

"HERB"

People used to mistake "Herb" for someone's little boy. But how he has grown in four years! Little Bill is Big William now, and no one dares dispute that fact. "Herb" is the boy with the "Ever Ready" smile. No one sees him unless that winning smile accompanies. Such a lad is destined to make a huge success of life. No matter how dark the cloud is, "Herb" always manages to see the silver lining. His never-failing optimism is contagious and it doesn't take long for him to inculcate some of his happiness into the hearts of those that know him. He is a comfort to the disheartened and a priceless necessity to his friends.

"RUNT"

Four years ago Rufus assumed his college work at Wake Forest. Many of us are envious of some of his unusual qualities. If he has two faces, he wears only one; if he dislikes anyone, he never tells the public; if he knows one's faults, he never criticizes that one; if he dislikes other people's methods, he uses his own. Surely Robeson never produced a more refined, more courteous, more polite, more friendly, better disposed and finer gentleman than Walker. We shall never forget his abilities and gymnastics. We hope for him a notable success.

"BUCK"

Much may be said in favor of the "happy medium" and "golden mean," and "Buck" has solved the secret of attaining them. Perhaps the most prominent musician in our midst, he is also active in society and religious work. A person of unimpeachable character, "Buck" manifests the proper degree of effervescent facetiousness and reverential devoutness to deserve the ever-enviable appellatives of "a good sport" and "a regular fellow."

"WILLIE"

Behold the exponent of refreshing radicalism. Willie can always be depended upon to be the advocator of the unexpected. He is the friend of those in trouble. His opinions almost approach convictions and he is open and frank with them. These qualifications, combined with a ready wit and pleasant demeanor, make his friendship highly esteemed. The loyalty which he has illustrated in his college connections is an asset which will continue to mark him as a true man and a sincere friend.

"DIZZY"

"Little but loud" is an expression that might well be changed to "small of stature but large of mind." "Dizzy" is symbolic of David as a cheer leader, but on class and in the laboratory his head is as level as a gyrostropic compass. His wagon has long been hitched to a lofty asteroid and is already well on its journey through uncharted spaces in the realm of science. This is indicated by his affinity for chemistry and his enviable record in this branch of science.

He is a true sport and likes always to see justice done. His mind is keen and alert. His grades bring out the fact that he keeps his mind active. Conway may look to Mr. J. R. "BOB"

Throughout Woodward's career he has distinguished himself as a true Christian gentleman and a lover of wisdom. His interests are not narrowed down to any one specific field. Doubtless, no other member of the Class of '30 shows more promise of becoming a truly great man. It might be said of him that he is—

He has spread his college career over several years, and has known and won the admiration of more classes than the four-year student. His sincerity and determination to do the right, will always win for him friends. His ideals are noble, aspirations high, and perseverance measureless. Polite, friendly, and congenial, he goes about on the campus, off the campus, in the classroom or wherever one meets him, he is always the same. You cannot pass him without obeying the commands of "Stop, Look and Listen," for his genial nature and fine personality command the respect of all. Jim came to us in 1927 as a Sophomore from the great metropolis of Buie's Creek. He is the only man in school who can walk without moving anything but his feet; likewise, he is the only man who can talk for fifteen minutes straight without stopping to catch his breath. All this shows that he is an exceptional man, but he has other exceptional qualities, too. He is a true friend and gentleman, and counts many as his friends among all the classes.

He is not presumptuous, not hasty in his conclusions, not thoughtless concerning the good of others, a serious student, a good mixer, wears a smile and scatters sunshine each day. Nobility of character and sincerity of purpose commend him to all. His success as a pastor and a student is due, no doubt, to the sweet spirit of his good wife who cheerfully "keeps the home fires burning." Unselfish service and a willing hand await you in Clyde—Try him out! Superans et superare.

Senior Class History

THE time has come when our thoughts and our actions, as a class while within these sacred walls are about to go down as history. Let us pause to review those hallowed days spent here.

Armed with our high school diplomas, certain that knowledge kindles the fires of imagination and inspires the flame of genius—pulsating with heightened anticipation of entering a new world and driven by accentuated hopes—in the fall of 1926, on a clear September morning, one hundred and seventy-five strong, we turned our faces toward the ivy-clad walls of Wake Forest. From everywhere we came, as if on a mad rush in search of gold. We were in reality beginning a search, but not for gold—for truth.

Since that time many of this original number have dropped by the wayside. Some because of misfortune—while others found the going too heavy—became discouraged and admitted defeat. But others have come into our ranks to still keep us strong in numbers and keep our enthusiasm high.

When we arrived, our environment was new and we had to become adapted to it. This process of adaptation would have probably been very difficult had it not been for our worthy aides and teachers—the class of '29.

Upon our arrival as Freshmen, there was an increase in the production of chapel song books, for we at once purchased all available. There was also a heavy offering of radiator fees, "gym" tickets and other actual necessities of college life.

Not long after our advent into college, we were given our first "night out" and we returned from this ennobling experience with the lower ends of our shirts imitating the flowing beard of retreating winter.

Following this night out we felt ourselves well introduced to the entire college community. For it was upon the campus wall that we proclaimed, in loud and accented tones, to the worthy Sophomores and the entire college community, our names in full, where we were from and why we came to Wake Forest.

Thus we passed our Freshman year and by the time June came around this heterogeneous group of Freshmen, who had entered college during the fall before, was now homogenous in spirit and solid in sentiment toward Wake Forest and was a definite entity of influence and concern. We had now reached the year for which every Freshman longs.

And even though being Sophomores is somewhat like the proverbial "morning after"—there being not quite so much fun in being as there is in becoming—if in our Freshman year we were subjects, certainly in our Sophomore year we were objects—objects of concern too. We had now advanced to a place of definite responsibility—that of imparting the Wake Forest spirit, traditions and ideals into our seemingly insignificant charges—the class of '31. The task was, to us, seemingly a difficult one, although we had just had our lessons in these activities and felt ourselves excellent teachers. Various and ingenious methods were employed in the accomplishment of this task. And even though the task required quite a bit of our time, we gladly gave, unreluctantly, all the time necessary, for we felt it imperative to prove ourselves worthy of the task that had been so graciously entrusted to us.

Thus we passed in Sophomoredom until out of pure satiety we became Juniors.

The Junior year is always epoch-making. In it we put our hands to the plow and turned up furrow after furrow of wisdom until the fields of learning appeared almost done. But when we think we have finished the last one, we reach the hill and find great uncultivated areas lying beyond the rim of our ability.

The Junior year is generally the year of transition. Some rise and become leaders, holding the offices and places of responsibility in the student body. Some choose to become absorbed in the life of endeavor which they intend to pursue after leaving college and bury themselves in the volumes of Shakespeare, the works of Osler, the volumes of Blackstone, or those particular courses which are of interest to them; while some relax their efforts and go to drifting.

In fact, Junior life is one of activity and application of widening circles of friendships, and of truer appreciation of one's fellow-man.

When the class of '30 awoke on Senior morning, we sat erect in our beds of contentment. The blinds of self-satisfaction were half opened and we gazed through the window of Realism into a world where Duty shone in all its array.

The Senior's life is one of complex phases. Looking backward, there is a longing for those lost opportunities that cannot be redeemed, even at a price above par. Considering the present we see a panorama of pearls of great price and realize that we can take only a few of these Gems of Study. Life becomes a process of discrimination and we reach half blindly for those opportunities that appear closest to us.

During our stay at Wake Forest we have seen the mighty giant of progress march on before us. We have witnessed the expansion of the Law Department into its present home. We have witnessed the installation of modern library facilities and have seen hundreds of volumes put on the shelves of our library. We have seen our campus beautified, and today we are witnessing the progress of a great campaign for an even greater Wake Forest.

Not only have we witnessed material progress but we have seen the growing of an even closer fellowship among the students of all the classes on the campus.

The class of '30 was the first Freshman class at Wake Forest ever to be entertained at a smoker by a Sophomore class—an event which marked the advent of this growing, ever-widening fellowship and friendship. Today, Freshman and Senior stand on equal footing.

The class of '30 was fortunate in being at Wake Forest under the administration of our cultural and fearless Dr. William Louis Poteat as well as under the administration of that magnetic personality, our retiring president, Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines. We shall ever cherish the memory of both of them.

And now, as we depart from the sacred walls of our Alma Mater, we pledge to her our loyalty. May she ever maintain her greatness—her noble traditions and Christian ideals; may her spheres of influence ever continue to widen; may she ever continue to stand for truth and justice. She will ever remain to us a home.

—HISTORIAN.

Class Superlatives

On the evening of February 28, at eight o'clock, the Class of '30 held its annual smoker in the Williams Dining Hall for the purpose of bestowing honor upon certain of its members who had, in one way or another, shown to be deserving of them. The ceremony was highly dignified by the presence of a galaxy of eminent educators—the faculty and Senior Class. During the first two hours of the program, speeches were made by the members of the faculty present. A lantern of wisecracks flew fast and furious; almost with lightning-like rapidity, and the good old Spanish custom of "Shoot ze Bull" was resorted to rather freely.

Finally the demand for food became so vivacious that Miss "Joe" Williams relented, and ordered the waiters to venture into the hall with trays of salads and liquid refreshments. As the assimilation of the victuals progressed, Toastmaster Graham Denton called upon several students to share their voluminous knowledge with the less fortunate members of the class. However, an element of hall crept into the speeches, and nominations for the various places of honor were called.

At once there were numerous members upon their feet placing their favorite candidate in nomination for the glorious honors. Evidence of several political machines was at once revealed, and machine politics prevailed throughout the elections.

Nominations were next entertained for the "Best Man" in the class. After careful scrutiny of the candidates presented, Graham Denton was conceded to be the most logical man for this honor.

The next election was of very much interest to the entire group—that of deciding the "Ugliest Man" of the class. This election was hotly contested, and a final counting of the ballots showed that Fred Voliva won the honor by the margin of one vote. After casting around, it was decided that no man was better qualified for the position of "Most Dignified" than "Dizzy" Wilcox, who was elected by acclamation.

A near riot resulted from the discovery that Roy Kinsey, who, because of his beautiful curly hair, is a charmer of the fair sex, was campaigning for the office of "Class Sheriff." After learning that P. S. Greene had formerly held this office, it was unanimously agreed that he should be re-elected. No one could deny the fact that H. C. Grubb is the "Biggest Cake Eater," and that "Sheriff" Young is the "Ladies' Man" of the class.

It seems that almost every man is guilty of lying some time in his life, but it is also true that some lie more than others. In this case Clarence Phifer was most fittingly declared the "Biggest Liar." Of course no one could deny the fact that "Bob" Councilman is the "Class Sot."

Nominations were in order for "Woman Hater." Beyond all doubt Emmett Ashcraft has remained most obdurate to the charm of the fair sex, and was the most logical man for this office. Charlie Hamrick was elected "Cutest Boy," and without dissension, "Bob" Outland was declared the "Most Concented." M. L. Kesler's wonderful record as an athlete qualified him as being the "Best Athlete." Of course all the class are pretty good bums but it was agreed that Roy Smith was the "Biggest Bum" of the class.

Someone arose and announced the "Most Popular." Here every voter became a politician, and all the tracks of the trade were used to convert those who had no choice. J. S. Holl oak finally won this honor by the margin of one vote over "Hamp" Byerly, who was later declared the "Best Student." Of course it is as useless as a tire pump in a canoe to say that anyone other than "Ed" Stanley is the "Laziest Member" of the class.

Every college student is guilty of "Legging." But when the politicians spread the propaganda that George Joyner has "legged" off every course he has taken, he won this honor without a dissenting vote.

Here the smoke grew denser as Dr. Jones began to puff his pipe and Dr. Hubert Potat refilled his Kaywoodie. The political machines refueled, and the elections proceeded. Tyre Jones was unanimously declared the "Best Politician." Then fearing that the office of "Biggest Freak" might be overlooked, he called for nominations. At once a yell was set up. "Give us Tyre," and, after the yelling was subdued, Tyre Jones was declared the "Biggest Freak."

It is said that "Ignorance is bliss," but this time it was decided that Wade Bostuck should be the "Blister." He was elected "Dumbest Man." "Red" Woodard was elected the "Most Business-Like," and Bill Riley, "Class Maron." Someone announced "Biggest Baily." Several men are especially qualified for this office and the election was hotly contested. Finally it was discovered that Willie Pittman had won the honor by a majority of two votes. As the political machines were becoming exhausted, it was very easily agreed that L. D. Wyrick was the "Most Intellectual."

At this point the fact was mentioned that two all-important honors had been overlooked the election of Class Sponsor, and Class Mascot. Instantly yells were raised, "Give us Dr. Jones for Sponsor." So on account of these demands, and because of his rather feminist characteristics, Dr. "Lucile" Jones was elected Class Sponsor. Dr. Bryan was elected Class Mascot.

With these offices so carefully filled, and all the cigars by this time being converted into ashes, the class showed its appreciation to Miss Williams for the use of the hall, and after singing "Dear Old Wake Forest," adjourned with the job they had finished.

Senior Class Prophecy

THE morning sun rises in glorious splendor, the birds are singing in joyful melody, and all nature seems to be in harmony with the glorious day that is before us—the Home Coming Day of the Class of '30. As we arrive on the campus a new Wake Forest greets us. We are pleased to see the many changes and improvements that have taken place since we left these sacred halls ten years ago. We walk along beautiful walks; we admire the majestic splendor of many new buildings that harmonize with the ivy-draped classic halls of our college days. We realize that our Alma Mater has kept pace with the unparalleled progress of the age; that her inevitable record and tradition has not been jeopardized; that she now stands as a physical monument of perpetual classic beauty.

Lo, we hear the ring of the college bell. What hallowed memories that lie buried deep within the past awake within us. Well do we remember how in days of old in clear pealing tones this same old bell announced an athletic victory, aroused us from our slumbers, and summoned us to our classes. Again, in that same old familiar tone, it is summoning us to the meeting of our class.

As we assemble in Memorial Hall at the hour of ten, everybody is trying to talk and shake hands at the same time, and everybody wants to know what everybody else is doing. Finally the meeting comes to order, and it is unanimously agreed that Walter L. Warford shall read the record of the class, since all are too modest to mention their exalted and honorable positions. There is a deep silence and a feeling of anxiety as Warford arises to read the record of the achievements of the members of the Class of '30. This record runs as follows:

Fellow Classmates: Ten years have passed, and the weight of ten weary winters has come upon us since that memorable day in June when we bade adieu to these sacred halls. We are happy today to be back on the campus of our Alma Mater. When we left college ten years ago, little did we think of the ability and talent of the members of our class. They have taken places of prominence in the business and professional world. They have become politicians, teachers, preachers, doctors, lawyers, bankers, scientists, business men, and farmers. In fact, practically every profession is represented by a member of our class.

Several members of our class have become affiliated with the college and the business life of the town. Roy Kinsey is director of the Department of Physical Education and head coach of track, succeeding Coach "Phil" Utley. "Bill" Riley is coaching varsity baseball, and Freshman football. Riley and Kinsey are operating a pressing club to meet expenses. "Bob" Councilman has succeeded Dr. Cullom in the department of Bible. He is also preaching twice a month at Forestville. C. A. Bland has become an assistant in the department of Psychology and Philosophy. Percy Parker has succeeded Professor Carroll in the department of Mathematics. Bruce Tomberlin, who is a professor in the department of English, succeeding Dr. Quisenberry, has popularized the Socratic method of teaching. H. D. Jones is principal of the Wake Forest High School. Bruce Perry has become head druggist in the Holding Drug Company. Ellis Nassif has become judge of the Recorder's Court, succeeding Judge Wilson.

A. A. Powell, an avowed pedagogist, is superintendent of the city schools of Roseville. and Rev. R. J. Rasberry is pastor of the First Baptist Church.

While in Raleigh I learned that a number of our class occupy positions of importance in the city. W. J. Holding is chief justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, while G. D. Taylor is in the rôle of associate justice, and H. R. Harris, Jr., is clerk of court. Graham Denton, our class president, is vice-president of the Raleigh Bank & Trust Company. Dr. J. C. Yates is a pastor in this city. O. J. Murphy is State B. Y. P. U. Secretary, succeeding "Tom" Lawrence, who has become a famous atheist and is now conducting a vigorous campaign against the Sunday School. Dana Jester, who for some time has been assistant editor of the News and Observer, has recently been elected head of the department of journalism of State College of Education. J. S. Ayers has developed into one of the most outstanding chiropractors of Raleigh. "Bob" Simms has become a successful lawyer. He is practicing in the firm of Simms and Simms. At the present he is seeking the office of judge of the Recorder's Court.

After their graduation, "Hamp" Byerly and Clarence Phifer became disgusted with modern civilization and went to one of the South Sea Islands to raise up a civilization according to their own tastes. The latest word from them is that they are doubly succeeding.

Willie Pittman, a physician in Fayetteville, has recently written a pamphlet on the subject: "How to Take Castor Oil and Like It."

Willie Watkins is now the mayor of Winston-Salem. Joe Keaton is operating a cigar store in this city on the installment plan. "Dizzy" Wilcox is head chemist in the city department of sanitation. P. T. Worrell is a minister in the city. J. H. Patterson is a surgeon in the Baptist Hospital. W. J. Buffaloe is an X-ray specialist.

Emmett Ashcraft, always a ladies' man, is out in Reno, Nevada, attempting to get a divorce from his second wife so that he can marry a third.

P. Y. Greene and C. N. Adams are operating an obstetrical hospital in Charlotte. "Pitt" Allen is doing his best to further the cause of humanity by devoting all of his time to the care of the feeble-minded in the Caswell Training School. He is head superintendent, and J. A. Gill is head physician.

Rev. G. D. Danner is a prominent minister in Statesville. At present Rev. J. O. Carter, a pastor in Reidsville, is assisting him in a revival meeting. A. M. Church is leading the singing.

Wade Bostick is practicing law in Durham. According to all reports he is keeping up the name of the city. Earle Bradley, who has become a popular evangelist, is conducting a six weeks' revival in this city.

R. B. Davis has acted on the theory that "variety is the spice of life." After graduation he could not decide whether to go into business, teach psychology, philosophy, and biology, or become a cartoonist. After piddling about in these fields for a few years, and doing nothing in either, he finally decided to become a dentist. Then after four years as a dentist he quit the profession. At present he is writing a book entitled "The Successful Business Man."

Dr. Charles A. Maddy, one of the most influential ministers of the South, and a professor in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, is to deliver a lecture in Memorial Hall next Sunday night.

J. M. Horton is professor of piano at Peabody Conservatory of Music. Tyre Jones, after leaving the campus, suddenly acquired a taste for music. He is now a professional manipulator of the drum sticks in Braxton's Orchestra.

R. J. Sykes and M. A. Williams are in Rome attempting to determine whether 411 was a significant date in Roman history, or whether it was Cleopatra's phone number.

R. M. Smith is a jeweler in the city of Greensboro, dealing exclusively in Woolworth's jewelry. G. W. King is a surgeon in the Guilford Hospital. H. W. Farber is district sales manager for the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company. W. O. Andrews is a minister in the same city.

L. P. Beck, a religious sophist, has become prominent in his work in Canada. P. E. Jones is doing research work in Alaska, and I. D. Wyrick is in Greenland, attempting to determine from what source the country got its name.

H. C. Grubb and M. E. Whicker are in Shanghai, China, studying the effects of rice upon the digestive system. R. M. Woodward is a medical missionary in Sou Chow, China.

C. J. Smith could never be induced to leave the farm, and, in spite of his many flattering offers from other news syndicates, he is still a farmer.

W. H. Overman and H. M. Patterson are in New York City attempting to determine the authenticity of "Ten Knights in a Bar Room."

M. L. Keesler, Jr., now head of the department of chemistry of Harvard University, has recently isolated the electron. He hopes to be able to revolutionize industry within the next few years, after he has finished the invention of a process of utilizing atomic energy.

Raymond Evans, after his graduation, decided to enter the field of medicine. He is now a physician in the city of Edenton, N. C. He has remained oblate to all the charms of the fair sex, and will probably continue to be a bachelor as long as he lives.

Troy Jones, who became inflected with pedagogy, is now professor of education at E. C. T. C., and Josephus Johnson is head of the department of mathematics.

R. B. Outland, who is professor of bacteriology at Johns Hopkins University, has just recently isolated the "mumps bacillus." G. W. Joyner is a surgeon there.

Irvin Biggs and "Bob" Fales have opened a hospital in the city of St. Paul's, N. C., which they call "St. Paul's Hospital for Blind Mice." Biggs is general superintendent, and Fales is head surgeon.

K. E. Brown has become an automobile salesman in the city of Pinnacle, N. C. He is general dealer for Model T Fords in that district.

Soon after finishing college "Red" Woodard went on a long sight-seeing trip into the West. While he was in California he met a pretty little blue-eyed girl—Oh, well, "Red" is still out West.

J. C. Livermon and E. G. Webb are defense attorneys for the Rum Runners Corporation of Wilmington, N. C.

J. M. Phelps and P. W. Joyner are practicing medicine in the city. T. A. Parker is a pastor of one of the Baptist churches there.

It is the talk of the medical world that H. M. Brickhouse and H. M. Patterson have discovered a drug that will absolutely cure the gout in nine days.

Julian H. King is still preaching in Goldsboro, and although he has been preaching there for nearly fifteen years, he reports that the collections are still rather good.

A. J. Lewis has become head of the sales department of the Southwestern Book Company of Nashville, Tennessee. He is limiting their sales to the continent of North and South America. He is selling real silk hosiery on the side during his spare time.

Miss Gladys Sledd, a master student in education, after her graduation was elected as a teacher in the department of education at Cullowhee State Normal. Dr. Margaret Lineberry, better known as "Our Co-ed" was very successful in marriage. She married the surgeon-general of the United States; and now she devotes part of her time to her profession, and part of her time to home life in Washington, D. C.

J. C. Walker and E. G. Cole are making a special study of a problem in physics, attempting to determine what would be the effect of irresistible force coming into contact with an immovable object.

Thurman D. Kitchin, Jr., and "Frosty" Hughes have both made a literary success. Kitchin is now general editor of College Humor. "Frosty" Hughes has recently written a book on the subject, "Why Women Prefer Blondes." His book is taking the nation by storm.

Walter Sykes is still playing tennis. It is very likely that he will be a member of the United States tennis team in competition for the Davis cup this year.

W. R. Wiley and J. D. Philips have been making an intense study of beauty culture. They are now operating a hospital in the city of Wilson. They are specializing in the removal of warts, freckles, and wrinkles. J. W. Gaddy is making a special beauty powder in the DuPont laboratories that is used in the operation.

E. B. Whitaker has been elected to serve the State of North Carolina in the United States Senate. He is a member of the senate lobby investigating committee. Lowell Taylor is also in politics. He is now a representative to the North Carolina State Legislature.

The last name has been called, and the record of every person has been read. Although we have not had any presidents or monarchs to come from our class, we are glad to know that every member of the class has made good. It is our sincere wish that the remaining years of their life's activity may be most pleasant and that they may rise to even greater levels of success.

Last Will and Testament

WAKE FOREST, N. C.
WAKE FOREST COLLEGE,
WAKE COUNTY,
FEB. 20, 1930.

We, the Class of Nineteen Hundred Thirty, realizing that the days which we yet have to spend under the shadow of the wings of this noble institution are fast coming to an end, and having reached the long and faithfully-sought goal, being in full possession of a sound mind, clear memory, and strong body, do make and declare this our last Will and Testament, hereby revoking any declaring null and void any and all wills heretofore made and executed by us.

We request that our funeral services be conducted by our friends and fellow citizens with all the dignity and splendor that our social standing in the college circles may merit.

The estate, rights and privileges that we have acquired, either by the Will of Fate or by the strong hand of Might and Perseverance, we do dispose of as follows:

I. To our parents and guardians who have made college life possible for us, we do acknowledge our debt of gratitude, promising them in return to make of ourselves worthy and upright men, thereby bringing joy and gladness to their hearts in old age.

II. As a token of our love, we give and bequeath to our Alma Mater whatever of information and knowledge we have at any time acquired by our untiring perseverance and ingenuity, to be used for the enlightenment and uplift of those who may seek to follow in our footsteps.

III. We give and bequeath to our beloved Dean and Faculty a reprieve from hearing and considering our many petitions, withdrawing all ungranted petitions that may be before them at the time of our departure.

IV. We give and bequeath to the Freshman Class the sole right and privilege of sitting on the rock wall at the main entrance to the college campus to see the smiling faces of the girls from Louisville, Raleigh, and elsewhere as they pass by on Sunday afternoons, suggesting that no one of them refrain from taking advantage of this golden opportunity to raise his social status to a higher peak.

At the same time we recommend to the Freshmen that they, in their Sophomore year, while they are full of wisdom and overflowing with knowledge, treat the new gentlemen who explore the campus as Freshmen with all the kindness and courtesy that they themselves have enjoyed from the present Sophomore Class.

V. We give and bequeath to the Sophomore Class the exclusive right and privilege to enjoy all the free rides to and from Raleigh during week-ends and all other times, advising them not to allow the preparing of lessons and the meeting of classes in any way whatsoever to interfere with their traveling experiences.

VI. We give and bequeath to the Class of '31 the following estate:

1. All Senior honors, of which we hope they will prove themselves highly worthy.
2. Senior dignity, to which we realize they are rightful heirs. While we fear that this may prove a heavy strain upon the nerves of many of the gay, handsome Juniors, we hope that they will not find it extremely difficult to achieve this high station in college life.
3. Senior privileges, provided that such said privileges at all times be held as sacred, and furthermore that said privileges never be misused or in any way abused so as to reflect upon the good name of our Alma Mater; and if said privileges are in any way abused they shall be taken from the Junior Class and disposed of according to the discretion of the Faculty.

VII. We will and bequeath to Coach Miller and to the Athletic Council our most loyal efforts to strengthen, expand and enlarge all athletic activities at this institution.

VIII. To Ex-President Potat we wish to express our deep and sincere appreciation for his many years of noble service to our Alma Mater.

IX. To President Gaines we wish to express our sincere appreciation for his deep interest in our Alma Mater and to him we will and bequeath our most hearty cooperation in making real his dream of a Greater Wake Forest.

X. The remainder of our property of whatsoever nature, character and quality it may be, not herein disposed of in any way, we do give and bequeath to Professor J. L. Memory for his sole use and benefit, that he may at all times keep on hand an ample supply of stationery to keep all Freshmen informed of their failures and shortcomings.

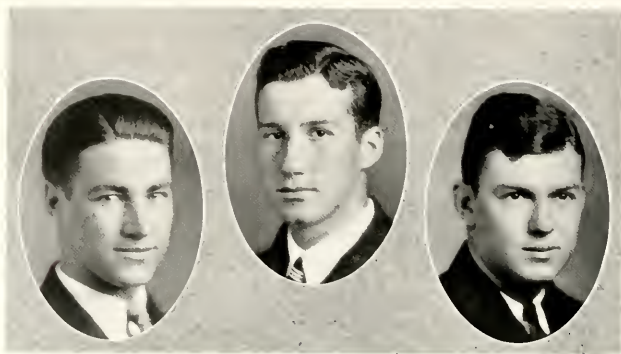

And we do hereby appoint and constitute the said Professor Memory and the Dean sole executors of this, our Last Will and Testament.

In witness whereof, we, the Class of 'Thirty, the testators, have to this, our Will, set our hand and seal, this, the twentieth day of February, Anno Domini One Thousand Nine Hundred Thirty.

THE TESTATOR.

CLASS POEM

Another year is gone:
A year in which we all have sung
The song of victory:
Our Alma Mater has led us on.
Until at last
We grasp the top-most rung.
Another page is turned:
A page on which the Moving Pen
Wrote deep and strong.
What failures we have made are burned
Into the past.
Never to be read again

Three years of crystal streams.
The streams of Time and Love which flow
O'er golden sands of Wisdom:
Upon their breasts our hopes, our dreams.
Our conquest songs,
Began to live and grow.
One more door before us!
Which just beyond the treasure lies—
The last great star!
With eager hearts and banners o'er us
And steady step,
We march upward to the skies

Junior Class History

A motley herd of mediocre historians have gone before me. They have recorded the histories of still more mediocre classes. Were it not for the fact that this particular history deals with a period of years of the lives of men who within but a short time are to shoulder the burdens of a tired world, I would not consent to the printing of this document. Even now, I fear that no pen is capable of justly presenting to an eagerly expectant world the magnificent achievements of this remarkable class.

Armed with our high school diplomas, certain that education fires the imagination of man and feeds the flame of genius, we made our way, as with one accord, toward the sacred halls of this noble institution.

It was only a matter of hours until a large majority of us learned a new meaning for the word "button." We later found that the term "fresh meat" is very fittingly used in places other than butchers' shops. I say learned? Oh yes, we learned! Chemistry, Math, and English invaded the minute crevasses of our mind but little. We were so full of the knowledge of proper newish reception, and so obsessed with the idea of later revenge. We longed to discard those "infernal machines of the devil." We ached to throw off that mask of patience, to stare the world in the face and cry, "No longer are we serfs. No longer will we be content with the crumbs that fall from the lord's table. No longer will we shine shoes, run errands, do acrobatic stunts promiscuously, and bend to a will stronger than our own. And no longer will we be forced to take advantage of barber work for which no charge is made."

Thus a majority of us, whether by toughness of shin, or because we were crazed with the spirit "My head is bloody but unbowed," wandered through the mazes of our newish year to return the fall of '28 rejuvenated physically and mentally by our summer's rest.

Our timidity as hosts of the new Freshman Class lasted only until the night of the "shirt tail parade," when the full meaning of "in unity there is strength" burst upon us. From that hour on we endeavored to give our inferiors a never-to-be-forgotten reception. And well did we succeed. No stone was left unturned in our struggle to outdo previous classes. But the vast gulf between us and the newish was bridged by good sportsmanship and the ability to give and take. We had few troubles and the days of our Sophomore year slipped quickly by.

And now, as we consider the year III in the preparation of our future, we are forced to rejoice over our successes and to weep over our losses. We, the Class of '31, have seen many cardinal points in the world's history transpire. We have watched breathlessly as the age-old landmark of this noble institution, the one thing that towered above the stress and strife of this mortal existence, the loving "bone of contention" between all Sophomores and newish, vanish, without leaving a trace of its existence, before the onward march of the giant Progress. We have seen with unbelieving eyes the cutting and re-cutting, the laying down and the taking up of walks that have for years traversed this campus, and the beginning of a mighty campaign for a Greater Wake Forest, and the organization of a College Band. We have—but this grows tiresome. While this class has made history, it has seen the influence of a Greater Power making Greater History.

We entered Wake Forest College at the beginning of Dr. W. L. Poteat's last year as President. We loved him in that capacity. We learned to love him as one of us. We were fortunate in having him, if but for a short time, as the head of our chosen Alma Mater. Then we enlisted under a new leader, and at once became his lasting friends. We loved this man, and it is with unbounded regret that we see him leave to take up his duties elsewhere.

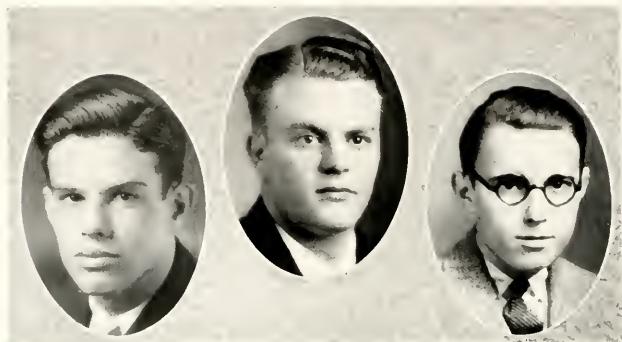

May peace, prosperity, and happiness rest upon the Class of '31, and may the last year of our college life be filled with as joyful days and as happy friendships as those just passed.

CLASS POEM

The ship that brought us in the deep
 Has lost her anchor long ago;
 Though tossed by surges high and steep
 Our faith will bring her to the shore.

Let surges roll! Let billows toss!
 Let every howling storm come here!
 The ship that sails with this dear Class
 Is clad with steel that shall endure.

Though skies be dark and surges roar,
 The duty lies with those on board.
 We'll guide her safely to the shore
 Where each shall find his own reward.

Soon light will dawn in the eastern sky;
 The roaring sea will be at peace;
 We'll give ourselves without a sigh,
 And some day we will find relief.

Sophomore Class History

The class of '32 made its debut at Wake Forest College on September 10, 1930. It would be hard to conceive of a more unsophisticated gathering than that body of Freshmen. However, under the guidance of R. C. Gwaltney, as president, we managed to pass successfully through the trials and tribulations of our Freshman year.

Shortly before the close of the 1928-'29 session we met and elected those men whom we thought best fitted to pilot us through the Sophomore year. Cary Dowd was chosen to guide the destinies of the class through the next session. With him were associated Franklin M. Averitte, as vice-president, and James Perry Morgan, as secretary.

The rising Sophomore class, realizing that then was the psychological moment for the replacing of outgrown and barbaric customs with new ones, tending to bring to culmination that spirit of brotherliness, which is so peculiarly Wake Forests' own, voted unanimously to break a precedent of many years standing and do away with the "shirt tail parade." There was a good deal of opposition at first from some of the upperclassmen, but the pertinacity of the class of '32 succeeded and now the "shirt-tail parade" is a tradition of the past.

Carrying the movement still further, under the leadership of Mr. Dowd, the class of '32 inaugurated plans for an annual Freshman-Sophomore smoker, in order to promote a more friendly spirit between the two classes.

The class of 1932 has given to the college several of her most outstanding men. Our men led in their scholastic endeavors. But not only in the classroom do our members surpass all others; we have men prominent in every phase of the college's activities.

The names of Dick Newsome, L. L. Brogdon, Bob Edwards, "Elsie" Webb, and Ed Williams, familiar to all who follow the trail of the bounding pigskin, all belong on our roll. Bob Edwards again in basketball; C. H. Stroupe and H. F. Fuller in track; L. L. Miller, Dick Newsome and "Lefty" Cobb in baseball—here are others of our band.

Not only in athletics does our class excel, for such men as D. N. Parker, in the Glee Club; Franklin M. Averitt, Harold Deaton and Arthur B. Carroll on the varsity debating teams; Delmont Griffin and B. A. Strickland in the dramatic association; and others serving on all the college publications, come from our class.

And now standing on the Acropolis of her eventful career, thrilled with the brilliancy of its past history, inspired with the hopes for the future, the class of 1932 will go forth bearing a crown of trophies to win yet greater victories for its Alma Mater.

CLASS POEM

I would this feeble pen could write.
Inspired by the gods that be,
A fit tribute to dear Mother Wake
From the class of '33.

I'd tell of happy days we've spent
Beneath your sheltering wings;
Of the greatest joy our lives have known:
The joy that friendship brings.

I'd tell of battles we have fought.
What matter lost or won
If in the end Old Wake can say:
"You've fought a good fight, my son."

Freshman Class History

Upon the campus of Wake Forest College on September 16, 1929, for the first time the Class of '33 appeared. This was an unorganized group of men gathered together from territory lying between the Blue Ridge and the Atlantic and extending as far north as New Jersey and as far south as Georgia. It was a varied collection of lonely greenhorns, but before many hours had passed their registration, this varied collection of lonely greenhorns had been bound together in warm fellowship by nothing less than the new black caps bearing the gold numerals '33.

In spite of the advantages of these Freshman caps, which could not be overcome, the wearers soon discovered that each possessed a particular part which was a source of chagrin. This part was the bright yellow button on the top. The habit of referring to the button was a favorite with the upper classmen. It often happened that a Freshman walking down the street heard the command, "Button, Freshman!" from some upper classman who had been unnoticed because the Freshman was deciding whether he ought to smile or wink at the fair lassie whom he was about to meet. No matter how much might be his chagrin, the would-be tall, erect, handsome gentleman, like a shamed child, had to place his left hand under his chin; and then, as if he were about to give a performance of the Highland Fling, he had to touch gracefully the button of his cap with the other fingers of his right hand. Having arranged his hands, he bends at the ankles, knees, and hips, until he reached a squatting position which approximated one of Coach Utley's gymnastic exercises. Then he raised himself back to his normal height, at which he lowered his hands. In such a manner the Freshman learned that though small, the button was a troublesome part. When classes began, however, the difficulty ceased to be keeping the hand off the button of the cap, but became putting something in the head under the cap.

When the Class of '33 had paid for the first time its matriculation fees and tuition, an unforeseen expense arose. This was in the form of paying for hymn books, chapel seats and bath tickets. Tempting offers in selling these were made by members of the Sophomore Class. Many Freshmen at once saw the necessity for these things and immediately purchased them at bargain prices lest they be sold out before another opportunity was presented.

With the incoming of the Class of '33 several changes were made as to the treatment and management of Freshmen. The first was the abolition by the Sophomore Class of the traditional "shirt-tail parade" and the substitution of the Freshman Rally Night, in which the new students are permitted to give exhibitions of their gifts of singing, dancing, oratory, etc. This action served effectively in promoting friendship between the two lower classes. The other step taken for the benefit of first year men was the appointment of Professor Jasper L. Memory, Jr., as Freshman Advisor. Professor Memory, by a system of consultation with delinquent students and their professors, has succeeded in reducing the percentage of failures among the first year men.

The officers elected from the 118 members of the class were: Paul H. Appel, President; Elbert C. Anderson, Vice-President, and G. A. O'Brien, Secretary.

The Class of '33 will be the last to have entered under the administration of Dr. Gaines. Although each member regrets profoundly the resignation of Dr. Gaines, it sincerely congratulates itself for the one year at least that it has had the privilege to marvel at his commanding personality, to enjoy his mastery of speech, and to become acquainted with his supreme ideals.

The class has not delayed its work until a more favorable time. Members have already begun to take part in the activities of the literary societies, debating teams, student publications, Glee Club and athletics. The class has considered its Freshman year as one of the periods of true college life. The memories of this year should be lasting, the results should be priceless.

"All things through thee take nobler form."

To be acquainted with Harvey is to respect him; to associate with him is to like him; to know him is to be his friend. He was popular among his fellow students and his friends were numerous. A good sport under any circumstance, and a heart of gold. We wish him the greatest success in all his undertakings and all the pleasures that such a man should merit from life's primrose path. May his smile never fade, his laugh never crack, and his friendly qualities never forsake him.

"SAM"

Here is a man who cultivates beneath his unassuming conduct the sterling qualities of a nobler type of manhood. He is thoroughly conscientious, being endowed with strength of character, frankness, seriousness of purpose, ambition, and marked ability—all of these have helped "Sam" to hold the admiration and fellowship of many students. We find in him a real friend, a good student, and a favorite pal. We shall watch him with interest as he goes out into the world to practice his chosen profession and wish for him much success.

"It is well for one to know more than he says."

"JOE"

Joe has lived in Wake Forest all of his life, and can tell about the college for years past. Joe is very seldom seen around the college except when he is on c'ass, because of the fact that he is a very busy man. If one is associated with him, however, he enjoys his friendship. Proof enough of Joe's ability is that he is able to engage in business and at the same time to complete the work on his degree. We are glad that when we return to Wake Forest we will at least see one of our old classmates.

"A jolly, unselfish personality is the greatest gift of all."

"COUNTRY"

"Country," as he is known to everybody, has been a very successful manager of athletic teams at Wake Forest. The fact that he has served well in the capacity of manager as well as in other positions indicates that he will be successful when he leaves college to enter the law profession. His ability to become well acquainted with everyone when first meeting them will be a big asset to him when he receives his LL. B. Degree in June and enters the professional field.

"NASS"

Ellis is the sort of man that, while quiet and unassuming, is the most necessary factor in the happiness and well-being of a campus. During the time spent here, he has made a host of friends, more than the ordinary man, for those qualities of dependability and cheerfulness which are so abundantly a part of his make-up naturally draw men to him to seek his friendship. The enviable scholastic record he leaves here, coupled with a radiant personality, insures him a future of the brightest sort. It is with regret that we see him leave Wake Forest, but we know that the world into which he goes needs him even worse than do we, so we'll just hope that the world will repay us by sending us another "Ellis."

"Bud" was with us for four years getting his academic degree. During that time he was very popular and successful, as is shown by his activities. Returning for another year, he was elected Vice-President of the Student Body, and also succeeded in getting his law license. He chose to practice law and did so for a year. This year he returned for one semester and finished his work for his LL.B. Degree. During these years he has been a faithful student and success surely follows.

Lowell is a living, hustling example of the fact that modern youths still have ambition and are willing to dig and to dig hard to accomplish their ideals. He has zest for reaching his goal and Lowell is certainly true to the preliminaries. Lowell is courteous, cultured and has a disposition to favor beyond what politeness would necessarily require. His unique personality, brilliancy, equity and integrity will make him a devout defender of the law.

"THOMPSON"

Popularity comes only to those who really deserve it. "Thompson" is popular among the students because of his unflinching good humor and his willingness to lend a helping hand. He is a man that is familiar with all the walks of life, well read, good student, and a friend whom all should cherish. His most outstanding qualities are his seriousness of purpose and his determination to win. His opinions are constructive and commendable. These undying qualities should win for "Thompson" a place of importance in the field of law and politics.

He faces the world with many valuable assets, and we believe with characteristics that have won for him a large number of friends among the students will win for him a place in the world. We can but predict for him in his high calling to the law profession, which he has chosen, a place of leadership among men. May his voice ever be lifted high above the voices of the multitudes—in the name of justice—to success, to his state and to his country.

For Edwin, the word gentleman fits as if it were coined for him. His personal appeal, charm and superior personality make him first and last a leader in every walk of life. The multitudinous honors he has received here make a goal for any man to fight for; but these honors, say all who know him, form merely a part of the honors which will be his in the outer world—for the world holds one honor after another for a man of Edwin's calibre.

"Jew" is encompassed on the campus by a wide circle of friends obtained by the sturdiness and conscientiousness portrayed in his undertakings. He possesses a real ambition, a superiority of leadership and a deep insight. What more does a man need for success? In his pursuit of the profession of law, it is readily predicted that there is a successful future in store for him. A feminine heart is a commanding element

'Tis really useless to say anything concerning "Stubby," as he is familiarly known on the campus, having won for himself distinction as one of the finest basketball players ever to represent Wake Forest on a basketball court. His general manners and sterling qualities will long cause him to be remembered by his classmates.

He has chosen the field of law for his profession, and we predict that, some day, he will be as familiarly known among the great lawyers of the country for his efficiency as a lawyer as he is among the supporters of Wake Forest for his efficiency as a basketball player.

History of the Law School, 1929-'30

The Wake Forest College Law School, under the efficient leadership of its beloved and scholarly dean, Dr. N. Y. Gulley, has again passed through another year of the great success for which it has been noted since its organization by him in 1895. He has been assisted by his very able associates, Professors R. B. White and E. W. Timberlake, Jr., who, by their profound knowledge of law and great ability as teachers, have won for themselves a state-wide recognition.

Possibly the most outstanding step made in the Department of Law this year was the addition to its faculty of a full-time professor. Mr. R. L. McMillan, a practicing attorney of Raleigh, was chosen for this position. Those who know Professor McMillan feel that he is the proper man to uphold the high standards of the Law Department, which have been firmly established by its faculty in years past.

At the beginning of the term this year, there were approximately one hundred and fifty registered in the Law School—one of the largest classes in its history. Of that number, forty-two were recommended by Dr. Gulley as being prepared to take the North Carolina State Bar Examination. Thirty-nine of this number were successful in obtaining their licenses. It has long been the pride of Wake Forest that such a great percentage of its representatives "passed the bar." This year was but another piece of corroborative evidence showing that pride to be well founded.

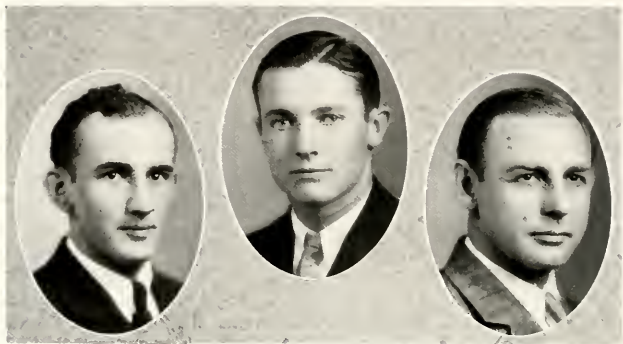

Among the things of most interest this year were the moot courts, which were conducted by the librarian, and occasionally, by a visiting attorney. There was a pronounced increase of interest in those Wednesday night entertainments, especially after the bar examination. A great number of people outside the Law School, as well as those in the Law School, attended the trials.

The 1929-'30 Law Class has not limited its activities to the field of law, but has been well represented in all phases of college life—athletics and virtually every type of organization known to the Wake Forest campus.

As a parting word, the Law Class of '29-'30 leaves its sincere hope that the future of the Wake Forest Law School may be as great in achievements as its past has been, and pledges its support to that end.

THE MEDICAL CLASS

THE 1930 HOWLER

CARLTON N. ADAMS, Γ Σ Ε, Θ Κ Ψ

JAMES SALISBURY AYERS, Θ Κ Ψ

"CYANIDE"

"To be without pretense or sham exactly what men think I am."

No man has ever come to Wake Forest and finished medicine with equal honors who has fought harder and more consistently in both self-help activities and courses of study than Carlton has. Throughout his five years here he has been found with no time to waste. With his sleeves rolled up and his mind acute and alert he has searched for a field—searched with an open and unprejudiced mind, and has, therefore, dug to the core of many a knotty problem in chemistry, pharmacology, physiology, and the many other sciences of medicine which the ordinary student would never attempt. Realizing these and other qualities in him, Dr. Vann made him his assistant in the Department of Anatomy. "Fair play" has been his creed, which "Doc," as he is often called, has had the "intestinal fortitude" to enforce. His good technique and his sympathetic understanding of the ills of humanity assure the world of a great practitioner of medicine.

"SHORTY"

*"Don't worry about the future,
The present is all thou hast,
The future will soon be present,
And the present will soon be past."*

"Shorty," as he has been known for five years about the campus, has a fame which reaches into realms other than that of the world. As a Deacon back he passed through holes that could not be approached by his fellow Demons. Two scenes of this youth's form will always be remembered—receiving a 45-yard pass in the last moment of a Duke game, and the "looping-the-loop" and other aeronautic stunts he performed when tackled by the "Wolfpack." As a medical student Ayers ranks high. After graduating from a great northern university, he will no doubt pass through sinews into cavities, and about the human anatomy where the rest of us will never have the form and skill to approach.

"J. I."

"J. I." is fortunate in possessing those rare qualities by which he will always be remembered by his classmates. He is quiet and unassuming, but when there is a task confronting him, he undertakes it with an eager determination that can spell nothing less than success. For six years he has sought for wisdom at the shrine of his Alma Mater, four in pursuit of his academic degree, and two in the quest of the art and wisdom of relieving suffering and pain among his fellowmen. During the past two years he has shown his ability by taking both medicine and managing the College Book Room. If space would permit many other activities of the college might be mentioned in which he has proven his worth. Nor has he entirely neglected his social obligations, and probably very few enjoy a few evenings with the ladies more than he. We sincerely hope that through the years to come and while practicing his chosen profession he will continue to add to those things that make for such a sterling character, and some day may all his dreams of accomplishments come true.

"BOB"

"Bob" has made an indelible record at Wake Forest College since he came here in the autumn of '25. During his first year he made friendships that the parties concerned can never forget. He is a friend to everybody and thus everybody is a friend to him. To sum up all we could say about him in a few words would be to say he is a downright, upright honest fellow. "Bob," unlike most of the boys after their Freshman days, became a friend to the Freshmen; he was known as the Freshman's friend. The auburn-haired Wilmington youth is quiet, reserved, patient, a consistent student and an honest leader. We know that medical science will not suffer on "Bob's" account, because he has that old scientific spirit "do or die." So we feel sure that with such a wonderful personality and unshakable character that the world has coming to her in the course of two years a great physician. We all wish "Bob" success in the world and we feel that after he has passed off the stage of activity the world will say he did his part to relieve suffering humanity.

"JOE"

Here is a "native" captured in the northern part of the forest of Wake. He has been known and still is well known by all men and women who have attended this noble institution during the past fifteen years. Although educated to do many tricks, he still presents a most unique character which makes him quite different from any other animal in captivity. The midnight ride of Paul Revere which terminated at Concord cannot be compared in celebrity to the midnight dashes which this lad makes in his dapper grey Chevrolet to a town by the same name. However, "Joe's" mission is not that of stirring men's souls to war, but rather that of carrying good cheer to the heart of —. "Joe" believes in the old adage: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," which explains why he has become so sharp. By his ever-present humor he has added much pleasure to the grind in the laboratory and in the classroom for our class during the past two years. As a doctor his very presence will cause a change in the temperature and blood pulse of his patients without the use of drugs—therefore he is assured of success.

"FRANK"

"He is a friend of truth, of soul sincere,
Not too serious, not too gay."

"Frank's" high degree of frankness and keen sense of humor have won for him at Wake Forest many strong frank friendships. In his gayest mood he is a "good fellow" from whom wit and charm flow, as water from a fountain, to entertain all those about him. In his studious mood he develops a true type of brilliancy—learning quiet and retaining well—a particular ease of manner which makes one at all times a master of any situation is characteristic of "Frank." He has stood the storm and stress of the study of anatomy, pathology, pharmacology and the many tools of medicine without presenting any signs of excitement or fear. Through his wide and varied experiences along the Atlantic Coast from Old Orchard, Maine, to Miami, Florida, he has developed into the best judge of beautiful forms and faces of any member of the class.

"Determination, self-confidence, and effort make dreams come true."

During the six years "P. Y." has sojourned with us in the sacred portals of our Alma Mater, we have watched him constantly as he has risen from the bottom, like Abraham Lincoln, until he now scales the uttermost rounds of the ladder. Truly it can be said of him that he is a self-made man, a thing he has achieved through his diligent, constant, persistent application and cultivation of his efforts. His is a determination that will tackle most any job, and though he may appear awkward sometimes, he generally sticks until he comes out on top. To know him well is to like and admire him, for his friendships have grown upon a solid firm media and have produced a most prolific and luxuriant growth. His success among the fairer sex has been no less marked, and it has become familiar to hear someone say, "P. Y. is off for the week-end to give the ladies a treat." Here is wishing for him the greatest of success in his chosen profession of scattering sunshine and pills.

"NANCE"

Like Hannibal of old in planning his attack on Rome, so has this Davidson County youth planned from youth his course, to master medicine. Grubb or "Nance," as we call him, has shown a high degree of determination in that he is one of the few that have the ability to enter medicine with only two years of pre-medical work. As a student he ranks among the highest. In fact, he is so realistic in his drawings that one would almost expect to see the process of metabolism actually carried on before his eyes, while looking at his drawings. When the noted statesman, Henry Clay said, "I would rather be right than President," little did he know that this young medical student would honor that name in the same county in which those famous words were written. For like the great statesman, he has never attained nor clamored for undue honors, but has striven forward as a gentleman with unassuming ability, personality and sincerity which cannot fail him in life's turbulent battles. Thus we look forward to the day when his name shall appear among the annals of medical progress and achievements.

'FRED'

Here is a robust fellow who hails from the all-famed borough of East Rose Hill. Probably his best classification would be that of a hesitating and conservative individual, yet a proud possessor of a "do or die" spirit. "Fred" entered college as a loyal cohort of the great Class of '29, and throughout the hectic days of his Freshman year he more than proved himself a determined and unconquerable classmate. During the next two years of his student activity he proved himself a dynamic politician among the many political struggles of the campus; it may well be mentioned here, his exalted and unanimous election as the most defiant politician of his class. At the beginning of his Senior year an intense revolution occurred within his inner being. Away down deep within his heart "Fred" heard the call of the suffering and afflicted humanity and laying aside all hopes of worldly advancement, he entered the medical field to alleviate the suffering of his fellow beings. Even as the immortal Alexander set out to conquer the physical world, so shall this youth from Eastern Carolina enthral everyone with whom he chooses to serve.

Sam comes to us from the tall majestic mountains of Wilkes and as they tower above their surroundings, so he towers above his fellow students. It is most fortunate to have such souls as his come to college, because the multitudes thronging to and from such institutions would become inevitably lost in the maze of student activities were it not for such men as he who tower in strength, ability, personality, character, and leadership. Lawyers and doctors were his ancestors, and merged in him we have the outstanding qualities of both—an irrepressible taste for politics in their highest form combined with exceptional aptitude in the art of healing. One may now, with perfect confidence, predict that people will cling steadfastly to this towering young doctor, not for his medical ability alone, but for himself as well. He is associated in our minds with towering mountains because of his towering height, towering mental ability, and towering personality. He may be described then by this simple phrase—a towering spirit loved by all.

"BILL"

Since beginning medicine, "Bill" has made his classmates sit up and take notice. His pre-med grades were not so hot, but last year he led his class in anatomy and made a ninety on his other work. It seems that medicine is his calling, for he has to read an assignment only once for it to stick with him. Along with his study of medicine, "Bill" manages somehow to keep in constant touch with someone back at home. This further proves what a good man he is, for it is only the best of them that are able to do both at the same time. We know that "Bill" will make a good doctor and wish him the best of luck in his career. It can be said that whenever "Bill" makes a friend he has a friend for life, because nothing that "Bill" has or can get is too good for his friends.

Ever since about the time John Smith anchored at Jamestown and met Pocahontas, the land (State) named for its original virginity has not been able to prevent much of its aristocratic blood from flowing southward, but upward, across the imaginary line into the land of the Tar Heels. (It must be a positive chemotaxis.) However, a more momentous locomotory process never occurred in this direction than in the autumn of '25 a few grams of human protoplasm covered externally with the derivatives of ectoderm—black wavy hair being most conspicuous—in a form which was known as "Buster Joyner" crept by the way of a Virginia capillary into a North Carolina vein of traffic which flowed into a heart of learning—Wake Forest College. Within the walls of this tutoring organ as a pre-medical student, he soon became a romantic figure in various activities on the campus and in nearby towns. But with his entrance into the School of Medicine he passed into the secluded inner chamber. And now as the left ventricle of that institution contracts and pumps him out through the aorta of a university into the capillary field of usefulness his prognosis is a grand success.

"ARCHIE"

"Pete," who finished his pre-medical work and athletics in '28, is now president of the medical class and is held in high esteem by all. There isn't anyone on the campus who has more friends and especially consultations than "Pete." These consultations may be about medicine or otherwise, but "Pete" is always able to offer excellent advice. And we all predict for him a great future.

"Great is the man with physical strength; great also is he of keen intellect; but greatest is the man with sterling character, for he is a part of his mother's own heart."

Margaret possesses those most rare qualities which have made her characteristic of the pioneers of the past to whom we owe and pay the highest homage. She has demonstrated this pioneer spirit by her thoughts and actions during the past three years. During the sessions of 1927-28 she dared be the first girl to get a Master's Degree from Wake Forest College. Then in the autumn of '28 she took the oath of Hippocrates and set sail upon that voyage which few women any only the bravest of men have accomplished. And as the first and only girl to be registered in the School of Medicine here, she has during the past two years provided over her tasks at the dissecting table, in the classroom, at the microscope, with such ease and Osterian Acquaintance as to distinguish herself and add brain, beauty, scholarship, charm, and professional dignity to the Medical Class of '30. Having by nature much of the magic of the physician of ancient times which she has harmonized with the science of the healing art of today, she will, when graduated from the Senior Medical School of her choice, go forth and read with an understanding the throbbing pulse of humanity.

"BOB"

"Above our life we love a steadfast friend"

I am an X-ray specialist of 1914 looking through a most powerful revealing apparatus at the "hero determination" center in the cerebral cortex of a six-year-old boy from a famous peanut town. The arrangement of the nissel granules in the neurones indicates at this early period a determination for being a follower of Hippocrates—to learn the art of healing for the purpose of alleviating human suffering. And now to follow this fair-skinned and dark-haired handsome youth through his home town school days where he was an athletic hero, into Wake Forest College where he fought the battles of a B.S. Degree in three years; and then into the School of Medicine where duty extracted much toll in labor and thought, we see him constantly true to his dream of childhood despite the powerful persuasive tempting of Venus, Bacchus, and Fortuna and the thick flying arrows of Dan Cupid. However, we believe that either his cardiac wall would show areas of scar tissue, or else he has a natural hypersensitiveness to moonlight. This Rich Square youth is a four-square man and an all-round good fellow—essentially a gentleman. We predict for "Bob" in both his professional and social life a future "fair and warmer."

"PAT"

"True to my word, my work, my friends."

"Little Pat," the name so often heard during his stay here, is still dear to us and there are none but whose faces brighten when he approaches. We find him a man among men and a god among women; always in love, yet ever in quest of new worlds to conquer; "Little Pat" is in all things original, and clever in his originality. Pat's originality is a product, not of shallow observation, but of thought made from a mind well read. His claim is that malnutrition of the reading faculty is a dangerous thing, and evidently he is the apostle of his own philosophy. He lived not only in books, for he knew the value of a pal and was ever the pal that could be valued. If sterling worth and personality have not recently suffered a discount, "Little Pat" is destined for a life of success well seasoned by friendship. We lose a good man that the world might gain. To you, our friend, good luck.

"PAT"

Here he is—that omnipotent power among the ladies. Don't rush him, girls—his motto is, "Women are women, but sleep is a wonderful thing." "Big Pat," curly hair, winsome smile, and all, came to our campus in '25. You wouldn't think it, but he was a real "Frosh" at one time. He joined the ranks of the "Demon Deacons," but his lot was not cast on "Sky Hill." After the preliminary process of passing Dr. Reid's "cryp"—psychology—and Prof. Wyatt's "pet course" along with a few difficult courses, he turned his attention to the use of the knife and probe, with which he has proven his skill. As a medical student "Pat" is making a good record and we see only a promising future for him. He is quiet and does not attempt to go about making friends, yet he has many and knows how to keep them. "Pat," we are for you, and wish for you the greatest success possible.

"PSOAS"

His friends know him as "Psoas," and a better name could not be found. He is just as strong and dependable as that very important muscle whose name he has borne since his first year in medicine. In his four years at Wake Forest, "Psoas" has made an enviable record in all his courses and has made a friend of everyone who has known him. He is not the type to thrust himself upon you; you must make the first move, but from then on you have a friend for life. "Psoas" hails from Bertie County and in that far country you will find him if there is a holiday at Wake Forest. He seems unable to resist the call of her whose likeness watches, from his dresser, his every movement. If he can only escape the snares of matrimony as well as he has passed through the labyrinths of anatomy, bacteriology, etc., he is certain to graduate into the profession at the very top. Luck to you, "Psoas." Success awaits you if you look for it.

"JACK"

For six years Wake Forest has been benefited by the presence of "Phoebe," and his departure this year will be regretted but not forgotten. How could we forget a man who has been so prominent in student activities and on the athletic field as has been "Phoebe"? In the history of the college there has been no better tackle on the football team than he. And in baseball he was a second "Ebs" Ruth Not only is "Phoebe" a tall, handsome athlete, but he is one of the outstanding students in the Medical school. He will doubtless, some day, tower above his fellowmen in the medical profession just as he towered in strength above his opponents in the football line. It is needless to say that success will be his—it is inevitable.

"WILLIE"

Willie, or "Pa Pittman," as he is more commonly known, having determined for himself that the world is round, felt his calling and returned to us from the region where the dawn comes up like thunder. Tho' a little late in his decision, his ideas are young and he has attained early that finished quality which travel gives us. And this quality is only one of his many. His home being for the past year an institution for the relief of pain and ills, he has already acquired the air of one of his chosen profession. Although quiet and reserved, Willie is there with the goods and it is a pleasure to him to be called on. What with these attainments, besides being a gentleman of the strictest sense of the word and a true friend, we must expect great things of him and without doubt we will hear of Willie in the future. The Class of '30 here parts with one of its most popular members and it is with best wishes and God-speed that we separate for the lifelong study of medicine.

"WHICK"

Early in his career at college, "Whick" established a reputation as an athlete. His good sense of vision, acute co-ordination, accuracy and force enables him to hit the "horse hide" for a higher average than any other "Baby Deacon" in the spring of '27. But his Sophomore year, to the surprise and disappointment of many, he sacrificed a promising diamond career to spend morning, evening and night in the laboratory chasing electrons, parasites and various vegetable forms. Thus with such persistency he did what only the best of students can do—enter medicine at the beginning of his Junior year. As a medical student his batting average still held supremacy, for the way he knocked fat and fascia with his probe and scalpel made him the best dissector in the class. Even though "Whick" may have put his emotions on cold storage for the present, we believe that he is subject to subordination by romance in the not far distant future. His good technique and his sympathetic understanding of the ills of humanity assure him of a brilliant success as a physician.

Once within the rôle of the immortal Caesar it is reported that he sent the following communication to the Roman Senate: "Veni, Vidi, Vici." Beyond a doubt these three expressions rightfully portray the spirit of this dynamic youth from Monroe. When Walter came for the first time to Wake Forest five years ago, he was faced with difficulties of an almost improbable nature. The youth's answer to such overwhelming obstacles may well be represented in the forceful words: "When Duty whispers, 'Thou must,' this youth replies, 'I can.'" In the fall of 1925 he left Union County to cast his lot with us. He has since that time commanded the highest respect of the student body. After receiving the B.S. Degree at his Alma Mater along with the Class of '29, Walter was seized with an unflinching conviction that human destiny held in store for him the rôle of an eminent physician; he has thus thrown his inner self toward the future alleviation of human suffering. "Until I truly loved I was alone." According to his personal testimony the above expression justly characterizes Walter Wiley. For five long years he has defiantly and victoriously encountered the many hazardous perils of college obligations. However, he has recently fallen prostrate before the onslaught of Cupid's insidious darts.

"SHERIFF"

"Sheriff," as we all know him, hails from South Carolina, the great Democratic State. Even though he is not a Tar Heel, his ways portray the motto of our great State: "To be rather than to seem." Young, as we sometimes hear him called, is a very congenial friend to everyone. To say all we would say about him in a very few words would be this: He is an upright, downright good fellow. "Sheriff" has worked hard for five long years at Wake Forest and we feel sure from the amount of midnight oil he burned last year studying anatomy—as for that he will make a good physician—we will be among the first to congratulate him. Just to see and know of "Sheriff's" achievements reminds us of that very old adage: "The best quality is put up in the smallest packages." It is true of him. We all wish Young a great success in life, and we hope that Dan Cupid does not shoot the arrow of matrimony at him before he obtains the long-sought-for Medical Degree.

Medical Class History

In September, the fall of 1928, when the doors of the medical department were thrown open to the incoming medical class, there appeared on the third floor of the medical building some 28 odd units or masses of protoplasm aspirant to the medical profession. Among this great assortment of prospective doctors, large, thin, short and tall, young and old, gallant and awkward, fresh and green, married and single, and some for whom no description can be found, there was a beautiful and charming character, such honor which no preceding medical class having had. She is our greatly respected and much beloved co-ed, Miss Margaret Lineberry, or more familiarly known to us as Margaret or "Lindy."

We were welcomed at the door of the dissecting room by Dr. Herbert M. Vann, professor of Anatomy, and as we filed in one by one, each clad in a white dissecting gown and carrying in one hand that big and heavy volume of "Midnight Stories," Morris' Anatomy of the Human Body, and in the other hand a dissecting set, we felt ourselves prepared to carve our way to a knowledge of the structure of the human body. In addition, we were subjected to a study of Embryology, Histology, Chemical Analysis and Physiology. After much worry, sleeplessness and struggling we reached the end of the first year, having accomplished one step of our four-round ladder of success toward an M.D. degree.

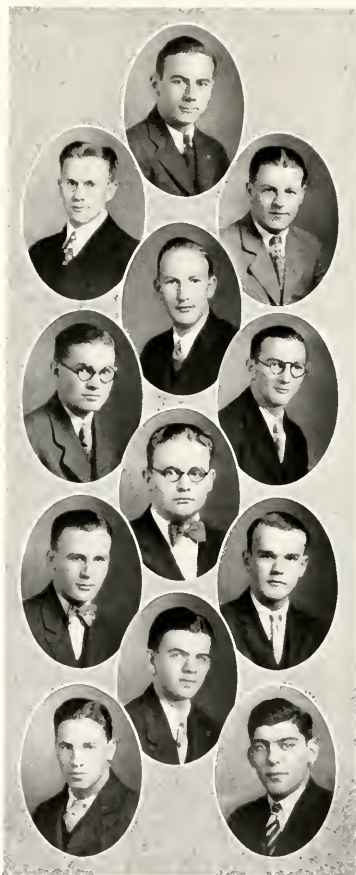

With the loss of a single member, whose absence was not due to any deficiency in scholarship nor to any failure to live up to the oath of Hippocrates, we reach toward the second round. After that short vacation we were not aware of the evils which were to befall us for we were soon beset by all the terrors of the second year with an additional amount of work over that of the previous year. Having been pounced upon by the spirillum of morbid anatomy and a host of other organisms, we were found to be worse off physically than before.

Crippled by former trials, we were easily attacked from all sides by the evils of general pathology, giving rise to all varieties of physical signs and cardinal symptoms of acute inflammation, we were nearly overcome. After being incised and properly drained, we rallied somewhat in response to active treatment and were able to undergo instruction in matters pertaining to both physiology and pharmacology.

In the semi-comatose condition, which the second year finals leave us, we enter upon a vacation, during which we are to recuperate for the still more severe third year of study at various schools throughout the country to which we shall be distributed to complete our chosen profession.

CLASS HISTORY

A progressive, thriving and zealous organization, such as the Ministerial Class of Wake Forest College, is like "a city built upon a hill." However, it is not, and never has been the purpose of the class to set itself off from the other students and classes of the college, but to work with them as one body. So the aim of this history, although brief, is to refresh the memories of those who have been in this brotherhood, when they shall perchance read these words in years to come.

Each year new faces are seen in the class; likewise, each year faces go out that will not be seen anymore. The class is composed of young men who have heard the call of Christ, "Come," and "the harvest is truly great, but the laborers are few." These young men have given their lives for the Master's use, and so just as keen as they have heard "Come," they have heard Paul say, "Study to show thyself approved." The qualities of the eighty-five members of the class this year make it greater than ever before.

Some of the members are full-time pastors, while others serve organizations on and near the campus. Each man is zealous to make of himself the best possible servant of God; so the members are found in greater numbers, in proportion, than any other class or organization on the campus, in the B. Y. P. U., Sunday School, and Literary Societies.

Under the leadership of its President, J. Clyde Yates, the class has met every Wednesday evening one hour before prayer services and it has had a most valuable, helpful and inspirational year. From our teacher, Dr. Cullom, we have received timely and valuable lessons and his love for, and loyalty to the class have been inspiration to each one; to him we extend our most hearty thanks, and we will pledge that, if Divine Providence permits, we will show him and the world that his toils and labor with us have not been in vain. To Dr. Gaines, our beloved President, even though our hearts seem to melt within us when we think of his leaving, we bid him God's speed and richest blessings in his new work.

DEACONS DEFEAT CATAWBA TO OPEN SEASON

Wake Forest opened her 1929 season on Gore Field on September 22 when the annual custom of meeting Carolina for the first game of the season was broken and Catawba was engaged as the first foe. The game was featured by a number of long runs by Mills, one of which was for forty yards. The Deacons completely outclassed their opponents in every phase of the game and emerged victorious by a 20-0 score.

CAROLINA'S WONDER MACHINE HITS THE DEACONS

Carolina's wonder machine performed in faultless style to completely annihilate the Deacons, 48-0, in their annual meeting. The Tar Heels scored three touchdowns in the first quarter, but were limited to one touchdown each quarter thereafter. Captain Cox and Mills were out of the game all but one quarter, due to injuries. The Deacons displayed wonderful spirit and fought till the last whistle, but were no match for their superior opponents. The defensive work of "Bob" Edwards at end and "Walt" Edwards at center deserve mention.

U. OF RICHMOND OUTCLASSED BY THE DEACONS

On October 5, Coach Miller's Deacons journeyed to Richmond, Virginia, to aid the University of Richmond in the dedication of the new $150,000 Municipal Stadium and, incidentally, handed the Spiders a 19-0 lacing. The Deacons made eleven first downs to their opponents' two. Hipps ran thirty-eight yards for the first touchdown scored in the stadium, while Quillen followed later with two more to make it all the more interesting for the Baptists.

ELON GOES DOWN UNDER ATTACK OF THE DEACONS

The entire student body of Elon visited Wake Forest the following week-end expecting to see their team return victorious, but Captain Cox displayed the form that made his name famous in North Carolina football in 1928 to lead his eleven to a 25-6 victory. The score was the highest that any Old Gold and Black eleven had piled up on a team since 1926. Benton, Hipps, and Mills shared honors with Captain Cox in the backfield, while the defense of the whole line was airtight save on one occasion.

POOR DEACONS

For the next game the Deacons journeyed over to Raleigh and met the Wolfpack in a game in which Wake Forest did everything except win. Wake Forest made fourteen first downs to their opponents' four. Several times the Deacon offense came within striking distance of the goal, while their opponents never threatened to score. Quillen scored first for Wake Forest on a short pass. Then Stout of State broke through the Wake Forest defense and blocked a punt behind the Baptist goal line for a safety. In the third quarter something paralyzed the Deacon defense for a moment and Melton of State received a short punt and raced seventy-two yards in what seemed to the Deacon supporters to be no seconds flat. And although the Deacons were able to gain ground consistently after this, they lacked the final punch to shove over another touchdown, and the game ended, 8-6.

TOO MUCH FOR THE WILDCATS

While students from G. C. and N. C. C. W. turned out en masse for the contest, the Deacons showed the fight, for which, in former days they were famous, to upset the dope and down the fighting Wildcats from Davidson, 8-0. The entire team played valiantly throughout the entire game to hold the highly-touted Wildcats scoreless for the only game of the season. Webb and Williams were two towers of strength at the tackle position in the forward wall, while Captain Cox, Mills and Benton starred in the backfield. The only score of the game came in the first quarter when Mills raced ten yards around the Wildcats' left end for a touchdown, but that was enough to spell victory for the Deacons.

FURMAN REPEATS

The Baptists of South Carolina were hosts to the Baptists of North Carolina the following Saturday, but the Purple Hurricane blew the weighty visitors back on the short end of a 12-0 score. Gregson, on end, was the leading Wake Forest player, time and again crashing through to throw the Furman runners for losses. Quillen was the shining light in the backfield for the Deacons.

WOFFORD CRUMBLES UNDER DEACON ATTACK

On a return trip to the Palmetto State the following week-end, Eustace Mills broke through the Wofford line for the longest run of the season on Snyder Field and gave the Old Gold and Black eleven their first score of the game. Benton and Cox contributed two other touchdowns to enable the Deacons to score an 18-0 victory. The heavier Deacon line was an impassable barrier for the Methodists, who could do nothing with the ball when within striking distance of the goal.

TOO MUCH NAVY

On November 16, the Middies of Annapolis found the Deacons poor seamen and ducked them by the score of 61-0. This was the worst defeat of the season for the Baptists. Despite a gallant fight, the North Carolinians were unable to either break through the Navy line or to hold their opponents. However, the defensive work of Levine deserves mention. His brilliant work at guard brought forth much favorable comment.

DEACONS OUTPLAY PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE

Three days later, Presbyterian College of South Carolina visited Gore Field and, finding a team completely fagged out from their Northern jaunt, held the Deacons to a scoreless tie. Wake Forest made thirteen first downs to their opponents' five, but were unable to turn these first downs into points. Mills made several long runs while Williams at tackle bore the brunt of the defensive play.

TOO MUCH BLUE DEVILS FOR THE DEACONS

While a small handful of spectators watched from a sleet-covered stadium, Wake Forest met Duke as their third opponent in eight days. The strain of the previous games told on the Deacons and the Millionaires finally emerged victorious, 18-0, in a game that was much closer than the score indicates. The Blue Devils earned only one touchdown against the Deacons.

TOO MUCH DEACONS

In Asheville, the Demon Deacons found the Mercer Bears easy Thanksgiving meat and closed the season with a 13-0 victory. Mills scored both touchdowns, the first after an 80-yard gallop, and the second after a 60-yard returned punt for a touchdown. Three Deacons closed their college grid careers with this game, Johnnie Cox, fleet halfback; Graham Benton, dependable guard, and Jew Zimmerman, hard working tackle.

A survey of the season shows that out of twelve contests, the Old Gold and Black gridgers were victorious in six games, lost five, and tied one. They scored 106 points while their opponents scored 146. Jack Parker, center and captain-elect of next season; Ed Williams, tackle, and "Iron Man" Gregson, who earned his title while performing brilliantly at end, were named on the second team of The News and Observer All-State selections.

Resume of Season

Wake Forest suffered the leanest season in basketball that she has experienced in many seasons. Due to graduation and the failure of Captain Scarborough to return to school, Coach Miller began the season with only three varsity men, only one of whom was a regular the previous season. But the team was characterized by a "never say die" spirit that brought much praise and favorable comment. At the beginning of the season, "Ty" Jones, the only letterman from last season, was elected captain.

Atlantic Christian College, which furnished the opposition in the only game played before the Christmas holidays, staged a last-minute rally to nose out the Deacons, 30 to 26.

Immediately after the holidays, the quint took a Northern jaunt, meeting Georgetown, the Navy, and Richmond Y. M. C. A. In the first encounter with Georgetown, the Southerners went down, 35-20. Playing at Annapolis the next afternoon, they were conquered, 39-20, although Downtin, ace of last season, who was allowed to play in this game, scored fourteen of his team's points, to be high scorer of the match.

In the last minute of the game, a lucky shot by a Richmond forward enabled the Y. M. C. A. to pull ahead of the collegians and gain a 28-27 verdict.

WEER, Center

BROGDEN, Forward

MARTIN, Guard

N. C. State welcomed the Old Gold and Black five to the Big Five circle with a 38-10 trouncing. Led by Tex Quillen, the entire team played valiantly, but were unable to hold in check last year's Southern champs.

Catawba furnished the Deacons with their first victim when they succumbed; 28-10. Allen led the Deacon offensive against the Indians, while Brogden vied with him for honors.

Duke showed the Deacons the class of ball that carried them to the finals of the Southern Conference in their next game, which they won, 49-22. Allen again was the shining light of the flickering Deacons, while the defensive work of Martin, guard, was worthy of notice.

Wake Forest staged a game fight to capture the lead from the Elon Christians in the closing minutes of play, to emerge on the long end of a 29-26 count. Quillen, Deacon forward, was high scorer of the contest, who scored one less than half of his team's points in the last game they won.

Carolina snowed the Deacons under by a 49-18 count in the next game. Bob Edwards, flashy Sophomore guard, and Captain Jones, elongated center, carried the attack for the losers.

Wake Forest almost provided the sensation of the season in the next game with Duke. Although Duke won, 37-30, it was not until the close of the game that the winner was settled. After a poor first quarter, the Old Gold and Black quint came back strong in the second session to come within three points of the Millionaires and force the Dukesters to fear the final count. In spite of being forced out of the game at the crucial moment, Bob Edwards was high man for the Baptists with eleven points. Jones following closely with ten. Edwards' playing in this game was nothing less than sensational and brought much comment from all over the State.

QUILLEN, Forward

On a trip to the Palmetto State, the Deacons lost both matches. Furman was the first foe. This was another of the games in which the Deacons were completely outclassed, coming out on the short end of a 43-14 score.

Davidson trimmed the Deacons the next night in a poorly played game in which the visitors were obviously off form. Quillen, star forward, was put off the floor early in the contest. Brogden and Jones were the best for the Baptists.

Carolina closed the season for the Wake Forest basketeers with a 37-15 trouncing.

The Varsity season was not one of marked success but the Freshman team had a very successful season and with the reinforcement which several members of the Baby Deacons will be able to give the Varsity squad, next season should be a very successful one.

Baseball, Spring of 1929

Lanning was in excellent form to open the season against the University of Pennsylvania, and let the visitors down with an 8 to 2 loss. Philadelphia sport scribes on the trip with the team were very complimentary in their reports of the game, and gave Coach Caddell much credit for developing a fine crowd of ball players. Al Dowtin got a homer with two men on base.

The next day Wake Forest rallied in the closing innings of the second game with the Pennsylvanians, but fell one run short of the necessary number to tie the visitors, who eked out an 8-6 victory over the North Carolinians. Runt Hord featured at the bat with a double and a triple.

Key Joyner was ineffective against his old teammates, while Edwards and Meador had the Henderson Bunnies eating out of their hands, and the collegians scored a victory over the professionals. Lassiter, who got four hits out of four trips to the plate, led the locals as they got fourteen hits.

Lanning pitched a great game to defeat N. C. State, 7-6, in the annual Easter Monday classic in Raleigh. State slowly cut down an early lead to draw dangerously close to the Deacons, but homers by Dowtin and Hord kept Wake Forest ahead. Hord contributed a spectacular catch when he leaped high in the air to pull down a blow from Melton's bat that was labeled for several bags.

Duke defeated the Old Gold and Black nine on their home diamond, 2-1, in as close a game as has ever been staged on Gore Field. "Lefty" Jenkins, Duke ace, hooked up with "Lefty" Lanning, Baptist ace, in a mound duel which was decided only by the superior defense behind Jenkins. Errors at crucial times cost the Deacons and allowed the Dukesters their only runs.

REYNOLDS, First Base    DORSETT, Field    WOOD, Utility    BELL, Field    BENTON, Third Base

Lenoir Rhyne was the Deacons' next opponents, and also the next victims, falling to the mighty bats of the Deacons 11 to 2.

Only a week later the Lenoir Rhyne Mountain Bears found sweet revenge, and handed the visiting Baptists the same treatment accorded them on their trip to the eastern part of the State, sending them home on the short end of an 8-1 score. Benton was robbed of a perfect day at the bat when the hosts' third baseman made a spectacular catch of his hard drive to left field.

Two days later the Demon Deacons staged a track meet at the expense of the Purple Panthers of High Point, and when the final count had been tabulated, held the long end of a 22-4 count. Gillespie scored four runs, one of them being a homer, while Scarboro and Dowtin also hit for the circuit.

Eight runs in the sixth inning gave Elon a 13-5 victory over the Demon Deacons in the next game. Dorsett, Hord, and Reynolds led the Baptists at bat, each getting two hits. Lefty Briggs, Elon ace, was too much poison for his "Big Five" opponents, while his teammates were finding the offerings of Edwards to their liking.

Duke's star, Jenkins, was invincible as the Blue Devils handed the Deacons a 9-2 setback. The Baptists got ten safe hits but they were kept well scattered.

A high ball, lost in the sun, dropped safely to let three runners score and give the Henderson Leaguers a new lease on life, which lasted long enough to enable them to score five runs in one inning, giving them a 6-5 victory over the Baptists. Edwards pitched good ball for the losers.

After trailing the Quakers from Guilford for seven innings, the Deacons came to life to score four runs in the seventh inning and go into the lead, 6-4, and behind effective relief hurling of Lanning held the lead the rest of the game. Meador allowed only eight hits in the seven innings he worked, but errors by his teammates put him in several holes. Scarboro hit safely twice in three trips to the plate, and Hord scored three times in four trips.

Lanning had things his own way, allowing the Catawba Indians only seven scattered hits and sending fourteen of them back by the strikeout route. Lanning also featured at the bat by scoring two runs, while Scarboro drove in three runs and scored one himself.

In a ragged game marked by costly errors, Quantico Marines defeated the Wake Forest Deacons, 15-7. Hord patted one of Kidd's fast balls in the first inning far over the center-fielder's head to score a homer, and drive in two men who were on the bags. The Devil Dogs soon overcame this early lead, however, and were never again headed.

In the next game of the Northern trip Georgetown barely limped through to an 8-6 victory. The Baptists scored six runs in the eighth inning. "Walt" Edwards, pitcher, made every attempt to win his own game, getting three of his team's nine hits, one of which would have been a homer had he not slipped in rounding first base.

On May 4, Coach John Caddell's Baptists mauled two High Point pitchers for thirteen hits to score eleven runs and win, 11-1. Meador and Lanning shared the mound for the Deacons, allowing but five hits during the entire game.

In a game that was anybody's up to the last inning, Lanning outpitched Ball and the Demon Deacons outplayed the Tar Heels to score a 4-3 triumph. Faust scored two of the Deacons' runs, while Gillespie got three hits out of four trips to the plate.

On May 14, Wake Forest's Demon Deacons strengthened their hold on second place in the State championship race by handing Chick Doak's Wolfpack from N. C. State a 7-1 licking. Lanning allowed the Red Terrors only seven hits, and only two of them came in one inning. Hord and Gillespie led the Baptist attack, each getting two hits.

CAPTAIN KINSEY

MANAGER STANLEY

CAPTAIN ROY E. KINSEY, Coinjocks fastest human. Roy is a track team by himself. He can do anything that is to be done on the team. He is a dash man, distance man, hurdler, pole vaulter, and does the high jump, although he is at his best in the broad jump. During the last two years he has been high scorer for the team in every meet and most of the time he carries away the individual scoring honors for the meet. His greatest achievement has been the establishing of a new state record in the broad jump. His non-stop flight of twenty-three feet one and one-half inches at the State Meet last year will probably stand for quite a while, unless he, himself, breaks it. In the hundred-yard dash he has never failed to place and he usually shows the way in on the two-twenty and the four-forty. His ability as a track man is proven by the fact that he has captained the team for two successful seasons.

PAUL "FLASH" HUTCHINS, Murray Greason's gift to Wake Forest. "Flash" is good for a place in almost any hundred-yard dash and can run the two-twenty even faster. "Flash" has been a member of the track team for two years and even though he hasn't any state records to his credit, he is a consistent point-gainer, a fact which counts for much in the team's success. He has started the year with splendid success and promises to make this his most successful year so far.

"TY JONES," our "Georgia Cracker," would be a decided addition to any track team. He is always good for several points in either the pole vault or the high jump, although he is at his best in the pole vault. In these two events he has never failed to place in a dual meet, a record any man could be proud of. "Ty" holds up his part of the burden in any meet and is a very important cog in our track "machine." He closes his career this year, and it is with regret that we witness his departure.

JOHN LOUIS DUPREE, the pride of Freeport, is our javelin thrower "extraordinary." He also holds a state record. "Dupe" tossed the javelin one hundred eighty-five feet three and one-half inches in the State meet last year, exceeding the old record by nearly five feet. "Dupe" is best with the javelin but he also makes points with the discus and the shot. He was a great factor in the success of the track team last year because of his ability with the weights. He has yet to lose the javelin throw in any meet for the first time.

Tennis at Wake Forest during the season 1929-'30, played a conspicuous rôle in athletic life on the campus. In fact, there was a sustained interest and spurts of form among Varsity men and especially Freshmen which bids fair soon to enable Old Gold and Black to regain her prowess in tennis which was peaked in earlier days when the Poteat-Earnshaw combination won all cups in the South Atlantic Tournament in Atlanta.

The team this year is comprised of six men picked by Coach Memory on the basis of their performance in the September tournament and their ability to defend successfully challenges from players with lower rank. The personnel of the Varsity in the order of their rank are: John Vernon, Burlington; Walter Sikes, Clemson, S. C.; Darwin Cobb, Atlanta, Ga.; Frank Fletcher, Raleigh; Delmont Griffin, Rocky Mount; Hal McMillan, Wagram; Fred Fletcher, Raleigh. Others on the squad in order of their rank are: Ed Harrell, Joe Minton, Dan Smith, Archie Carroll, Bod LeGrand, T. W. Wilcox, Percy Parker, J. W. Stone, Thurman Helms, B. A. Strickland, Gay Hensley, Ray Kelly, Archie Qualls.

At the time the HOWLER goes to press, the team had engaged in four intercollegiate matches and had won all of them. On November 23 it defeated the Raleigh Tennis Club, eight matches to one. On December 3 the University of Richmond was also defeated by the same score, eight to one. On December 4, on its jaunt into Virginia, the Union Theological Seminary was conquered by the score of seven matches to two. On March 15 the Raleigh Tennis Club was met again and was nosed out, five matches to four.

The Varsity schedule for the remainder of the session includes matches with country clubs of Greensboro and Charlotte; the North-South Tournament at Pinchurst, April 14-19; matches with Davidson, Furman, Clemson, Duke, N. C. State, University of Richmond, Hampden-Sidney, and Elon.

For the first time in the history of the institution a Freshman team was organized and selected also on the basis of performance of players in the March tournament. The team is comprised of Stedman Kitchin, Bill Babcock, J. A. Butts, Guisto Pegano, Bob Burns, and George Coppedge.

Others on the squad in the order of their rank are: Garland Midyette, A. L. Wagoner, J. M. Vinson, Bill Huggins, Edward Callis, Red Upchurch, H. W. O'Briant, C. W. Teague, E. W. Green, Bill Day, J. H. Turner, Clyde Duckworth, A. V. Washburn, B. L. Anderson, J. W. Howell.

POWER

All Our Modern Accomplishments Lead Back to POWER

Without power, rapid transportation, communications, industry, as we know them today, would be impossible.

In industry, greater production and standardized methods of manufacture mean a decline of prices: lower cost per unit. The purchasing power of wages becomes greater.

The benefits of electric power are not limited to your own personal use of that power in your home or business. They are reflected in all your other bills—for there is scarcely a commodity, the cost of which is not decreased by the use of electric power.

GOOD taste knows no frontiers. We quote below from a letter received by us:

"It will be, I have no doubt, a source of gratification to you to know that Chesterfield cigarettes were on sale and, at that, the leading American seller, in all parts of the world.

"We started our trip on December 2nd, and visited among other points—Madeira Island, Gibraltar, Monte Carlo, Algiers, Haida, Jerusalem, Cairo, Naples, Suez, Bombay, Java, Dutch Sumatra, Singapore, Manila, Hongkong, Shanghai, Peking, Kobe, Tokyo, Honolulu, the Canal Zone, Havana and home.

"Not only was Chesterfield the leading American cigarette at all points visited, but it was the best seller (all brands) on our ship, the Empress of Scotland."

All over the world you find appreciation of Chesterfield's unchanging standard:

"TASTE above everything"

"Can't you see those dandelions?"
—Kansas Sour Owl.

THE EARLY START

"It's a boy!" exclaimed the doctor. And what are you going to call him?"
"Percival Archibald Reginald," said the proud father.
"That's an odd combination, isn't it?"
"Yes, but I want him to be a boxer."
"I don't see the connection."
"No? Well, think of all the practice he'll get when he goes to school with that name."

Joseph: "I didn't understand that joke of Tom's."
Jeremy: "No, I couldn't get the jest of it myself."
—Stanford Chaparral.

And then there's G Herndon who got a shoe shine and then remembered he had his roommate's shoes on.

—Witt.

Irate Player: "I wasn't out!"

Sarcastic Umpire: "Oh, you weren't? Well, you just have to look at the newspaper tomorrow"

—Lehigh Burr

"Why so downcast, old man?"

"I've found out that I can't neck my girl any more."

"How's that?"

"My college has severed all athletic relations with her college"

—Stanford Chaparral.

"Do tell me dear, I'm all ears."

—College Humor.

He: "May I have the pleasure of this dance?"

She: "Sure, sit down."

—Stanford Chaparral.

"Yeah?"

"That one wasn't called George."

The Gym class prefers sitting-up exercises.

"Should for me to call you, Pete Sawyer—Thrice Aces! What have you?"

"What's the matter, Bobby? Why are you crying?"

"Aw, my kite won't fly, and my dad made it out of fly-paper, too."

—Notre Dame Juggler.

"I came within an ace of winning the game."

"Then why didn't you?"

"The other fellow had the ace."

—Boston Beanpot.

"Is she modest?"

"I'll say. I took her to dinner once, and she ordered bosom of chicken."

—Williams Purple Cow.
